The Prose Brut and Other Late Medieval Chronicles Jaclyn Rajsic, Erik Kooper, Dominique T. Hoche, 2016 Essays on the medieval chronicle tradition shedding light on history writing manuscript studies and the history of the book and the post medieval reception of such texts The histories of chronicles composed in England during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries and onwards with a focus on texts belonging to or engaging with the Prose Brut tradition are the focus of this volume The contributors examine the composition dissemination and reception of historical texts written in Anglo Norman Latin and English including the Prose Brut chronicle c 1300 and later Castleford's Chronicle c 1327 and Nicholas Trevet's Les Cronicles c 1334 looking at questions of the processes of writing rewriting printing and editing history They cross traditional boundaries of subject and period taking multi disciplinary approaches to their studies in order to underscore the shifting historical social and political contexts in which medieval English chronicles were used and read from the fourteenth century through to the present day As such the volume honours the pioneering work of the late Professor Lister M Matheson whose research in this area demonstrated that a full understanding of medieval historical literature demands attention to both the content of the works in question and to the material circumstances of producing those works

Liberating Histories Claire Norton, Mark Donnelly, 2018-07-11 Liberating Histories makes an original scholarly contribution to contemporary debates surrounding the cultural and political relevance of historical practices Arguing against the idea that specifically historical readings of the past are necessary or are compelled by the force of past events themselves this book instead focuses on other forms of past talk and how they function in politically empowering ways against social injustices Challenging the authority and constraints of academic history over the past this book explores various forms of past talk including art films activism memory nostalgia and archives Across seven clear chapters Claire Norton and Mark Donnelly show how activists and campaigners have used forms of past talk to unsettle common sense thinking about political and social problems how journalists artists curators filmmakers and performers have referenced the past in their practices of advocacy and how grassroots archivists help to circulate materials that challenge the power of authorised institutional archives to determine what gets to count as a demonstrable feature of the past and whose voices are part of the historical record Written in a lucid accessible manner and combining insightful critical analysis and philosophical argument with clear consideration of how different forms of past talk influence the narration of pasts in a variety of socio political contexts Liberating Histories is essential reading for students and scholars with an interest in historiography and the ethical and political dimensions of the historical discipline Serial Offenders Kevin Borgeson, Kristen Kuehnle, 2012 Identifying crimes and classifying them as serial murders is the first step towards determining who the offender is and what his or her motives and actions were Serial Offenders Theory and Practice explores the act of criminal profiling and the effective methods of case analysis and linkage Intriguing case studies are used to thoroughly examine the behavioral aspects of serial homicide and the investigative issues that criminal justice professionals face Readers will learn how to build hypotheses construct timelines and develop suspect lists Successful interview and interrogation skills and methods are also covered Dismissed as elegant fossils Lee
