It explores popular and media texts that are meaningful to youth and their lives. It questions how these texts position youth as literate social practitioners. Based on theories of Critical and New Literacies that encourage questioning of social norms, the chapters challenge an audience of teachers, teacher educators, and literacy-focused scholars in higher education to creatively integrate popular and media texts into their curriculum. Focal texts include science fiction, dystopian, and other youth central novels, picture books that disrupt traditional narratives, graphic novels, video games, other arts-based texts, film, novel hybrids, and even the lives of youth readers themselves as texts that offer rich possibilities for transformative literacy. Syllabi and concrete examples of classroom practices have been included by each chapter author. Teaching Torah Sorel Goldberg Loeb, 1997 A teacher's bible for teaching the Five Books of Moses. This invaluable guide for preparing to teach or study the weekly Torah portion provides a precise synopsis of each of the 54 parashiyot, as well as overviews of commentaries and sources, capsule biographies of Torah interpreters, and provocative questions. Over 1,000 unusual strategies help readers analyze, extend, and personalize the text. A bibliography and a thematic index make this an especially useful resource for Bar/Bat Mitzvah preparation, sermon, D'var Torah, ideas, and Havurah discussions. Rethinking Columbus Bill Bigelow, Bob Peterson, 1998 Rethinking Columbus: the next 500 years, edited by Bill Bigelow and Bob Peterson, is a resource guide for teachers and community activists which includes 90 essays, poems, short stories, interviews, historical vignettes, and lesson plans that re-evaluate the legacy of Columbus. Hard-to-teach Biology Concepts Susan Koba, Anne Tweed, 2009 The book is not a prescribed set of lessons plans. Rather, it presents a framework for lesson planning, shares appropriate approaches for developing student understanding, and provides opportunities to reflect and apply those approaches to the five hard-to-teach topics.
