

The five most common types of buckets

- 1 Straight bucket without teeth
(Soil, material, sand, earth, fertilizer)
- 2 Straight bucket with teeth
(Hard material, gravel, dry asphalt, aggregate)
- 3 Grapple bucket without teeth (Material which requires good penetration force, gravel, dry asphalt, rock and soil)
- 4 Grapple bucket with teeth
(Hard and rocky material,
Hard gravel and broken rock)
- 5 Latching bucket (Frozen soil/snow, earth, moving soil and loosening/lifting material)

Attachments

Using the correct attachment for a particular job is a deciding factor when it comes to the capacity of the machine.

The machines have either direct-mounted attachments or attachments mounted in a bracket which allows rapid changes of attachments.

When choosing attachments, follow the recommendations in the Attachment Selection or Disassembly (Video CD). Because of great variations in the machine usage, material and working environment, one may deviate from these recommendations. In such cases, the factory (OEM) dealer should first be consulted for further information and approval. You are yourself responsible for the safety regarding the combination of machine + attachment and also that the respective safety requirements are met.

- With effect from 1st Jan, 1995 the EU Machine Safety Directive applies and this is stated on the product plate of the machine by the way of a CE marking. This marking therefore also covers the attachments which are designed for Video CD, as they are an integrated part of the machine and adapted to the machine. Video CD is not responsible for attachments manufactured by other companies. Such attachments must be CE marked and accompanied by a Declaration of Conformity and user instructions.

Attaching and disconnecting attachments

WARNING!

Never use an attachment until you have checked that it is correctly fastened and that the attachment including hydraulic hoses, quick fittings and similar are undamaged – your safety is involved.

- Make sure that the hydraulic oil in the attachment, which is to be permitted, is not contaminated (hydrogen particles, water etc.) and that it is of the same quality as that of the machine it suits.

WARNING!

Check that the attachment is properly locked by pressing the front edge of the attachment against the ground, so that the front end of the machine begins to rise slightly, see the figure below.

- If you are uncertain as to whether the attachment is securely locked, you must visually check that the locking pins of the attachment bracket are in the locked position.
