Who Was Louis Braille:

Who Was Louis Braille? Margaret Frith, Who HQ, 2014-03-13 Louis Braille certainly wasn't your average teenager. Blind from the age of four, he was only fifteen when in 1824 he invented a reading system that converted printed words into columns of raised dots. Through touch, Braille opened the world of books to the sightless and almost two hundred years later no one has ever improved upon his simple, brilliant idea.

Louis Braille C. Michael Mellor, 2006 Louis Braille: A Touch of Genius is the first ever full color biography to include thirty-one of his extant letters, some written by his own hand and translated into English for the first time. Three great men were born in the early weeks of January 1809: Abraham Lincoln, Charles Darwin, and Louis Braille. Only one has remained virtually unknown: the man who invented a means of reading and writing still used today in almost every country in the world, adapted to almost every known language from Albanian to Zulu. Born sighted, Louis Braille accidentally blinded himself at the age of 3. He was lucky enough to be sent to a school for blind children in Paris, one of the first in the world. There, at the age of sixteen, he worked tirelessly on a revolutionary system of finger reading that became braille. He was a talented musician, astute businessman, and genius inventor, collaborating with another Frenchman to invent the first dot matrix printer around 1840.

Seeing Fingers Etta Degening, 1962 Biography of the young blind Frenchman whose remarkable invention of the Braille alphabet freed the blind everywhere to live useful lives.

Triumph Over Darkness Lennard Bickel, 2015-01-27 Born in France in 1809, Louis Braille was the fourth child of a village saddler. At the age of three, he stabbed himself in the eye with a pointed tool taken from his father's work bench. Some thirteen years later, he again took a sharp tool from the same bench and used it to create a code of raised dots punched through sheets of paper. With the patience of a genius, he perfected his code, still unsurpassed and fashioned an alphabet that opened the world of learning to the blind. Louis Braille died at the age of forty-three, unknown and unhonored. His superiors at the Royal Institute for the Young

Blind in Paris would not recognise a system that was not based on the shapes of the alphabet Lennard Bickel researched this story in Paris and in the small village where Louis Braille was born He tells of the trials and torments of young blind man struggling amid the harshest conditions to perfect something he believed in Triumph Over Darkness first published in 1988 is a stirring story of determination and tenacity in the face of adversity Louis Braille Jayne Woodhouse,1998 A simple biography of the man who invented a special system of raised dots on paper enabling blind people to read Louis Braille
