Joseph Merlino, Deborah Pomeroy, 2024-03-29 New Era New Urgency The Case for Repurposing Education explores the unprecedented realities and challenges associated with entering a new era such as catastrophic climate changes, advanced artificial intelligence, massive demographic shifts, and worldwide digital disinformation campaigns. This era calls for a new urgency in thinking about how we will educate present and future generations of young people. This book is divided into four parts. Part I describes the profound social, technological, and demographic changes that have occurred over four hundred years since the first English settlements in Massachusetts and Virginia. Part II describes four shadows that have served to corrupt these purposes of education: extreme wealth inequality, nativism, white supremacy, and anti-intellectualism. Part III explores the illusions of educational reform that have over-promised college and career success, created an idolatry of math, test scores conflated memorization of facts with conceptual understanding and confused multiple layers of policy agendas with progress Part IV depicts F Joseph Merlino and Deborah Pomeroy s twelve years of experience in Egypt Bosnia Herzegovina Turkey and the U S in helping to craft new purposes of education for model schools in their countries that reflect their aspirations for a new generation      Who's #1? Amy N. Langville, Carl D. College Rankings Luke Myers, Jonathan Robe, 2009 Today college quality rankings in news magazines and guidebooks are a big business with tangible impacts on the operation of higher education institutions The college rankings published annually by U S News and World Report U S News are so influential that Don Hossler of Indiana University derisively claims that higher education is the victim of management by the magazine How did academic quality rankings of colleges and universities become so powerful in higher education A review of their historical development in the first section of this study may surprise many readers While college professors and administrators alike largely decry rankings today their origin lies in academia itself Begun as esoteric studies by lone professors college rankings development into the most popularly accepted assessment of academic quality was fueled by the very institutions of higher education they now judge While the purpose and design of academic quality rankings has evolved during the century since their creation their history teaches one clear lesson college rankings fill a strong consumer demand for information about institutional quality and as such are here to stay for the foreseeable future Various approaches to college rankings have different benefits and each is subject to legitimate criticism all of which should be seriously considered in light of the powerful effects that a widely distributed ranking can have on institutions of higher education and the students seeking to enter them Sections II and III will explore these aspects of college rankings respectively In light of the historical lessons revealed in Section I however movements that seek to reform college rankings should be focused on producing better rankings rather than on trying to eliminate or ignore them Section IV will survey multiple new indicators of academic quality that many view as potential improvements over the indicators upon which current college rankings are based Contains 2 figures 6 tables and 116 endnotes Academic Quality Rankings of American Colleges and Universities David S. indicator data Each system somewhat arbitrarily decides on a set of indicators and assigns different weights to these presumably reflecting their relative importance This simple and simplistic approach meets well common sense And in fact much of the discussion on world university rankings is conducted at the commonsensical level However analyses conducted in the recent years uncovered several problems of the prevalent approach spurious precision mutual compensation weight discrepancy indicator redundancy etc which render the overall scores and ranking suspect in terms of validity These are due to systems ignoring the fact that world university rankings are a form of social measurement and therefore need be seen from this perspective Moreover rankings encourage competition and in the highly competitive world of today it is natural that institutional attention is focused on the ranking results By now the original purpose of world university ranking seems to have been overshadowed and world university rankings look more like international academic contests as though they are annual sports meets This monograph collects together many articles pertaining to the identified measurement and statistical issues of world university rankings and suggests remedies to make ranking results more trustworthy
