

Computer Competency Test Study Guide

The Virginia Community College System believes that all students should experience a teaching-learning environment that espouses computer and information literacy in accessing electronic resources and applying knowledge through technology. The VCCS endorses the principle of computer competency for all students' intent on completing a curriculum in excess of 45 semester credits.

To be considered competent, the student will:

- 1• Be able to demonstrate a working knowledge of computing concepts, components, and operations to accomplish educational and career tasks;
- 2• Be able to use appropriate components of an integrated productivity software package involving word processing, spreadsheet, data base, presentations, and/or communications applications;
- 3• Be able to access, retrieve, and apply networked information resources, e.g., on-line catalog, virtual libraries, the Internet and world wide web; and
- 4• Be able to use telecommunication software, e.g., electronic mail, listservs, bulletin boards, and/or new groups, to communicate with faculty, students, and information providers.

The Computer Competency Tests will consist of the following two parts and will take approximately 2-4 hours to complete:

- 1• an objective test covering computer concepts, components, and operations
- 2• a test that shows the student's ability to use an integrated software package; access, and retrieve information from virtual libraries, the Internet, and/or the world wide web; use telecommunications software such as electronic mail, bulletin boards, listservs, and/or newsgroups to communicate

The Computer Competency Test will be given at the following locations (Reservations Required):

- 1• Locust Grove Campus: Testing Center, Room 207F, (540) 423-9147
- 2• Fredericksburg Area Campus: Testing Center, Room 207, (540) 891-3083

Multiliteracies for a Digital Age Stuart Selber, 2004-01-23 Just as the majority of books about computer literacy deal more with technological issues than with literacy issues, most computer literacy programs overemphasize technical skills and fail to adequately prepare students for the writing and communications tasks in a technology-driven era. Multiliteracies for a Digital Age serves as a guide for composition teachers to develop effective full-scale computer literacy programs that are also professionally responsible by emphasizing different kinds of literacies and proposing methods for helping students move among them in strategic ways. Defining computer literacy as a domain of writing and communication, Stuart A. Selber addresses the questions that few other computer literacy texts consider: What should a computer-literate student be able to do? What is required of literacy teachers to educate such a student? How can functional computer literacy fit within the values of teaching writing and communication as a profession? Reimagining functional literacy in ways that speak to teachers of writing and communication, he builds a framework for computer literacy instruction that blends functional, critical, and rhetorical concerns in the interest of social action and change. Multiliteracies for a Digital Age reviews the extensive literature on computer literacy and critiques it from a humanistic perspective. This approach, which will remain useful as new versions of computer hardware and software inevitably replace old versions, helps to usher students into an understanding of the biases, belief systems, and politics inherent in technological contexts. Selber redefines rhetoric at the nexus of technology and literacy and argues that students should be prepared as authors of twenty-first-century texts that defy the established purview of English departments. The result is a rich portrait of the ideal multiliterate student in a digital age and a social approach to computer literacy envisioned with the requirements for systemic change in mind.
