Section 15.2 STUDY GUIDE FOR CONTENT MASTERY*Section 15.1 Answers

16. An sodium chloride dissolved in water. What happens to the sodium and chloride ions?

The sodium and chloride ions are separated and surrounded by the water molecules.

17. Unlike the attraction of the water molecule toward the sodium ion and chloride ion.

Because the sodium ion is positively charged, it attracts the negatively charged portion of the water molecule (the oxygen atom) and repels the positively charged portion of the water molecule (the hydrogen atom), because the chloride ion is negatively charged, it attracts the positively charged portion of the water molecule and repels the negatively charged portion.

18. How does the strength of the attraction between water molecules and sodium and chloride ions compare with the strength of the attraction between the sodium ion and chloride ion? How do you know?

The attraction between the water molecules and the sodium and chloride ions is greater than the attraction between the sodium and chloride ions. The greater strength of attraction between the water molecules and the ions is what causes the solution process to occur.

19. In order to separate the ions of solute may be increased, stirring or shaking the solution, breaking the solute into smaller pieces, and heating the solvent.

In your textbook, read about heat of solution, solubility and factors that affect solubility for each solute and solvents, with type of solute.

True 14. The overall energy change that occurs when a solute dissolves is heat of solution.

False 15. Solubility is a property of the solute, amount of solute that dissolves in a given amount of solvent at a specified temperature and pressure.

False 16. Solvent molecules in liquid as the solute has a low heat of solution.

False 17. In a saturated solution, solute and crystallization are in equilibrium.

True 18. Additional solute can be dissolved in an unsaturated solution.

True 19. The solubility of a gas dissolved in a liquid decreases as the temperature of the solution increases.
