A New Companion to Victorian Literature and Culture Herbert F. Tucker, 2014-05-05 A NEW COMPANION TO VICTORIAN LITERATURE AND CULTURE The Victorian period was a time of rapid cultural change which resulted in a huge and varied literary output. A New Companion to Victorian Literature and Culture offers experienced guidance to the literature of nineteenth century Britain and its social and historical context. This revised and expanded edition comprises contributions from over 30 leading scholars who, approaching the Victorian epoch from different positions and traditions, delve into the unruly complexities of the Victorian imagination. Divided into five parts, this new Companion surveys seven decades of history before examining the key phases in a Victorian life: the leading professions and walks of life, the major literary genres, the way Victorians defined their persons, homes and national identity, and how recent neo-Victorian developments in contemporary culture reconfigure the sense we make of the past today. Important topics such as sexuality, denominational faith, social class and global empire inform each chapter's approach. Each chapter provides a comprehensive bibliography of established and emerging scholarship.

The contributors examine various forms of human dominion over animals as manifest in fiction, performance and the visual arts as well as in hunting, killing, vivisection and zookeeping. Distinguished by its acknowledgment of how the Victorians' obsession with animals continues to haunt twenty-first century animal rights debates, Victorian Animal Dreams provides valuable insight into the burgeoning field of animal studies and points toward future studies of animals in the Victorian period.

Death in the Victorian Family Patricia Jalland, 1996

This engrossing book explores family experiences of dying, death, grieving and mourning between 1830 and 1920. Victorian letters and diaries reveal a deep preoccupation with death because of a shorter life expectancy, a high death rate for infants and children and a dominant Christian culture. Using the private correspondence, diaries and death memorials of fifty-five middle and upper class British families, Pat Jalland shows us how dying, death and grieving were experienced by Victorian families and how the manner and rituals of death and mourning varied with age, gender, disease, religious belief, family size and class. She examines deathbed scenes, good and bad deaths, funerals and cremations, widowhood and the roles of religion and medicine. Chapters on the deaths of children and old people demonstrate the importance of the stages of the life cycle as well as the failure of many actual deathbeds to achieve the Christian ideal of the good death. The consolations of Christian faith and private memory and the transformation in the ideas and beliefs about heaven, hell and immortality are analysed. The rise and decline of Evangelicalism, the influence of unbelief and secularism, falling mortality and the trauma of the Great War are all key motors of change in this period. This fascinating study of death and bereavement in the past helps us to understand the present, especially in the context of the modern tendency to avoid the subject of dying and to minimize the public expression of grief. In their practical and compassionate treatment of death, the Victorians have much to teach us today.
