

A black and white photograph of a wedding dress hanging in a window. The dress is white and has a long, flowing train. It is hanging in front of a window with a grid pattern, possibly a stained glass window. The light from the window creates a strong contrast, highlighting the texture of the fabric and the shape of the dress. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

The Wedding Dress Fanny Howe, 2003-11-25 In times of great uncertainty the urgency of the artist's task is only surpassed by its difficulty Ours is such a time and rising to the challenge novelist and poet Fanny Howe suggests new and fruitful ways of thinking about both the artist's role and the condition of doubt In these original meditations on bewilderment motherhood imagination and art making Howe takes on conventional systems of belief and argues for another brave way of proceeding In the essays Immanence and Work and Love and those on writers such as Carmelite nun Edith Stein French mystic Simone Weil Thomas Hardy and Ilona Karmel who were particularly affected by political philosophical and existential events in the twentieth century she directly engages questions of race gender religion faith language and political thought and in doing so expands the field of the literary essay A richly evocative memoir Seeing Is Believing situates Howe's own domestic and political life in Boston in the late 60s and early 70s within the broader movement for survival and social justice in the face of that city's racism Whether discussing Weil Stein Meister Eckhart Saint Teresa Samuel Beckett or Lady Wilde Howe writes with consummate authority and grace turning bewilderment into a lens and a light for finding our way theoretical insights for those more experienced in the area      The Possibility of America David Dark, 2019-04-09 Published in the years following 9 11 David Dark's book The Gospel according to America warned American Christianity about the false worship that conflates love of country with love of God. It delved deeply into the political divide that had gripped the country and the cultural captivity into which so many American churches had fallen. In our current political season the problems Dark identified have blossomed. The assessment he brought to these problems and the creative resources for resisting them are now more important than ever. Into this new political landscape and expanding on the analysis of The Gospel according to America Dark offers The Possibility of America. How the Gospel Can Mend Our God-Blessed God-Forsaken Land. Dark expands his vision of a fractured yet redeemable American Christianity bringing his signature mix of theological, cultural, and political analysis to white supremacy, evangelical surrender, and other problems of the Trump era.

Draw Your Weapons Sarah Sentilles, 2017-07-04 A single book might not change the world. But this utterly original meditation on art and war might transform the way you see the world and that makes all the difference. How to live in the face of so much suffering. What difference can one person make in this beautiful imperfect and imperiled world. Through a dazzling combination of memoir, history, reporting, visual culture, literature, and theology Sarah Sentilles offers an impassioned defense of life lived by peace and principle. It is a literary collage with an urgent hope at its core that art might offer tools for remaking the world. In Draw Your Weapons Sentilles tells the true stories of Howard, a conscientious objector during World War II, and Miles, a former prison guard at Abu Ghraib, and in the process she challenges conventional thinking about how war is waged, witnessed, and resisted. The pacifist and the soldier both create art in response to war. Howard builds a violin; Miles paints portraits of detainees. With echoes of Susan Sontag and Maggie Nelson, Sentilles investigates images of violence from the era of slavery to the drone age. In doing so she wrestles with some of our most profound questions: What does it take to inspire compassion? What impact can one person have? How should we respond to violence when it feels like it can't be stopped? Praise for Draw Your Weapons: A collage of death, savagery, torture, and trauma across generations and continents. Sarah Sentilles's Draw Your Weapons is painful to read, hard to put down, and impossible to forget. O, The Oprah Magazine. In her dynamic impressionistic and cleverly titled book Sentilles focuses on language and images, particularly photography, and considers what role they play in peace and war. Eschewing a traditional narrative, Sentilles focuses on two men: one a World War II conscience objector who makes violins, and the other an Abu Ghraib prison guard who paints detainee portraits. In brief, delicately layered pieces rather than a narrative, Sentilles has created a collage that explores art, violence, and what it means to live a principled life. The National Book Review. It's the kind of book that after reading just half you have to stop and catch your breath because reading it changes you not just in terms of what you know, it changes the way you think and how you feel so much so that halfway in I wanted to go back and start again because I felt I was already a different person to the person I was when I began. Turnaround.
