The Will To Empower Democratic Citizens And Other Subjects:

The Will to Empower Barbara Cruikshank, 2019-06-30 How do liberal democracies produce citizens who are capable of governing themselves In considering this question Barbara Cruikshank rethinks central topics in political theory including the relationship between welfare and citizenship democracy and despotism and subjectivity and subjection Drawing on theories of power and the creation of subjects Cruikshank argues that individuals in a democracy are made into self governing citizens through the small scale and everyday practices of voluntary associations reform movements and social service programs She argues that our empowerment is a measure of our subjection rather than of our autonomy from power Through a close examination of several contemporary American technologies of citizenship from welfare rights struggles to philanthropic self help schemes to the organized promotion of self esteem awareness she demonstrates how social mobilization reshapes the political in ways largely unrecognized in democratic theory Although the impact of a given reform movement may be minor the techniques it develops for creating citizens far extend the reach of governmental authority Combining a detailed knowledge of social policy and practice with insights from poststructural and feminist theory The Will to Empower shows how democratic citizens and the political are continually recreated increased migration and globalization Special emphasis is put on the question of whether inclusive and egalitarian citizenship can provide political legitimacy in a turbulent world of exploding social inequality and resurgent populism Citizen Consciousness in Cambodia Johannes Ph. Backhaus,2020-06-28 Johannes Ph Backhaus applies the Model of Education Reconstruction MER to the context of a social accountability intervention in Cambodia This book is not an evaluation but adopts a qualitative perspective on the learning approach applied by the researched intervention The research found that the learning intervention does not systematically include learners pre existing social knowledge It would potentially benefit from systematically harvesting and reinforcing pre held convictions to sustainably motivate participation It does not address potentially sensitive topics while interviewees show a sophisticated and holistic understanding of these Finally there are inconsistencies between the program s aims and objectives In sum the piloted approach offers pathways on how to beneficially include qualitative perspectives on similar development interventions **Meaning in Action** Hendrik Wagenaar,2014-12-18 This accessible book gives academics graduate students and researchers a comprehensive overview of the vast varied and often confusing landscape of interpretive policy analysis It is both theoretically informed and clear and jargon free as it discusses the specific strengths and weaknesses of different interpretive approaches all with a practical orientation towards doing policy analysis *The Anthropology of Citizenship* Sian Lazar,2013-11-11 The Anthropology of Citizenship introduces the theoretical foundations of and cutting edge approaches to citizenship in the contemporary world in local national and global contexts Key readings provide a cross cultural perspective on citizenship practices and an individual citizen s relationship with the state Introduces a range of exciting and cutting edge approaches to citizenship in the contemporary world Provides key readings for students and researchers who wish to gain an understanding of citizenship practices and an individual s relationship with the state in a global context Offers an anthropological perspective on citizenship the self and political agency with a focus on encounters between citizens and the state in education law development and immigration policy Provides students with an understanding of the theoretical foundations of citizenship as characterized by liberal and civic republican ideas of political belonging and exclusion Explores how citizenship is constructed at different scales and in different spaces Twenty five key writings identify what is a new and vibrant subfield within politics and anthropological research *Revoking Citizenship* Ben Herzog (Social science teacher),2015-02-06 Revoking citizenship has been an official part of American policy since the end of the nineteenth century This book sheds light on the current state practice by looking at its transformation in the United States from the colonial era to the War on Terror Not limited to a legal studies perspective it also places the revocation of citizenship within the framework of historical sociology *The Will to Improve* Tania Li,2007-05-16 DIVTheoretical and anthropological study of how techniques of governance have been devised in the colonial and postcolonial context of Indonesia and their effect on current debates over economic development in the region div **Projecting Citizenship** Gabrielle Moser,2019-01-11 In Projecting Citizenship

Gabrielle Moser gives a comprehensive account of an unusual project produced by the British government's Colonial Office Visual Instruction Committee at the beginning of the twentieth century a series of lantern slide lectures that combined geography education and photography to teach schoolchildren around the world what it meant to look and to feel like an imperial citizen Through detailed archival research and close readings Moser elucidates the impact of this vast collection of photographs documenting the land and peoples of the British Empire circulated between 1902 and 1945 in classrooms from Canada to Hong Kong from the West Indies to Australia Moser argues that these photographs played a central role in the invention and representation of imperial citizenship She shows how citizenship became a photographable and teachable subject by tracing the intended readings of the images that the committee hoped to impart to viewers and analyzing how spectators may have used their encounters with these photographs for protest and resistance Interweaving political and economic history history of pedagogy and theories of citizenship with a consideration of the aesthetic and affective dimensions of viewing the lectures Projecting Citizenship offers important insights into the social inequalities and visual language of colonial rule Personhood and Identity in American Law Anna Rutherford Kirkland,2003 NWSA Journal

professionals involved in development work How she asks did the highlands come to be seen as needing development And why did the presence of well intentioned developers still leave behind so much apparent misery and hardship Returning to the region to conduct an ethnography of development professionals McKinnon found that the majority were dedicated to ideals of altruism emancipation and advocacy for local people and resigned to the inevitable failures and shortcomings that emerge when development efforts are co opted by geopolitics Her book is an account of the everyday efforts and struggles of those who do development consultants researchers government officials NGO workers and village partners Taking a critical approach to post development theory she argues that politics and ideology are an intrinsic part of development work and argues that an active engagement with the politics of development is essential for professionals hoping to make a difference
