Erica Yu, David A. Lagnado

True Blood S In Order:

True Blood Patricia Waddell, 2006-08-29 She s a diplomat Danna MacFadyen of the League of Planets is assigned to investigate the explosion of a space freighter She must use her psychometric skills to determine whether this was an accident or terrorism but for Danna the hardest part of this assignment is working with Korcian Enforcer Cullon Gavriel He s a warrior Fighting isn t just in a Korcian s blood it s in his very soul Cullon Gavriel already knows the freighter explosion was terrorism targeted at the Korcian prince traveling incognito aboard the ship Cullon s single goal to discover who is killing Korcian True Bloods He never expects to become enchanted with a beautiful Terran female who has the ability to step into the past As the pieces of an explosive puzzle fall into place Danna and Cullon realize they have uncovered a conspiracy that stretches across the galaxy The trail leads to the capitol city of the Korcian Empire where shocking secrets lie hidden and where the lines between politics and love cross unexpectedly

Theories of Choice Stefan Grundmann, Philipp Hacker, 2021-01-14 Choice is a key concept of our time It is a foundational mechanism for every legal order in societies that are politically constituted as democracies and economically built on the market mechanism Thus choice can be understood as an atomic structure that grounds core societal processes In recent years however the debate over the right way to theorize choice for example as a rational or a behavioral type of decision making has intensified This collection provides an in depth discussion of the promises and perils of specific types of theories of choice It shows how the selection of a specific theory of choice can make a difference for concrete legal questions in particular in the regulation of the digital economy or in choosing between market firm or network In its first part the volume provides an accessible overview of the current debates about rational versus behavioral approaches to theories of choice The remainder of the book structures the vast landscape of theories of choice along with three main types individual collective and organizational decision making As theories of choice proliferate and become ever more sophisticated however the process of choosing an adequate theory of choice becomes increasingly intricate This volume addresses this selection problem for the various legal arenas in which individual organizational and collective decisions matter By drawing on economic technological political and legal points of view the volume shows which theories of choice are at the disposal of the legally relevant decision maker and how they can be operationalized for the solution of concrete legal problems The editors acknowledge the kind support of the Fritz Thyssen Foundation for an exploratory conference on the subject of the book

Dynamics of decision making: from evidence to preference and belief Erica Yu, David A. Lagnado, 2014-10-24 At the core of the many debates throughout cognitive science concerning how decisions are made are the processes governing the time course of preference formation and decision From perceptual choices such as whether the signal on a radar screen indicates an enemy missile or a spot on a CT scan indicates a tumor to cognitive value based decisions such as selecting an agreeable flatmate or deciding the guilt of a defendant significant and everyday decisions are dynamic over time Phenomena such as decoy effects preference reversals and order effects are still puzzling researchers For example in a legal context jurors receive discrete pieces of evidence in sequence and must integrate these pieces together to reach a singular verdict From a standard Bayesian viewpoint the order in which people receive the evidence should not influence their final decision and yet order effects seem a robust empirical phenomena in many decision contexts Current research on how decisions unfold especially in a dynamic environment is advancing our theoretical understanding of decision making This Research Topic aims to review and further explore the time course of a decision from how prior beliefs are formed to how those beliefs are used and updated over time towards the formation of preferences and choices and post decision processes and effects Research literatures encompassing varied approaches to the time scale of decisions will be brought into scope a Speeded decisions and post decision processes that require the accumulation of noisy and possibly non stationary perceptual evidence e g randomly moving dots stimuli within a few seconds with or without temporal uncertainty b Temporally extended value based decisions that integrate feedback values e g gambling machines and internally generated decision criteria e g when one switches attention selectively between the various aspects of several choice alternatives c Temporally extended belief based decisions that build on the integration of evidence which interacts with the decision maker s belief system towards the updating of the beliefs and the formation of judgments and preferences as in the legal context Research that emphasizes theoretical concerns including optimality analysis and mechanisms underlying the decision process both neural and cognitive is presented as well as research that combines experimental and computational levels of analysis
