Evaluation of the High-heel Roof-to-wall Connection with Extended OSB Wall Sheathing Andrew DeRenzis,Vladimir Kochkin,Xiping Wang (Wood scientist),2013 A recently completed testing project conducted to evaluate optimized structural roof to wall attachment solutions demonstrated the effectiveness of wood structural panels in restraining high heel trusses against rotation This study was designed to further evaluate the performance of OSB wall sheathing panels extended over the high heel truss in resisting combined uplift and shear forces Five full size roof wall assemblies were constructed with extended OSB wall sheathing and each was tested under a different loading combination Our test results indicate that using extended wood structural panel wall sheathing as the primary connection element at the roof to wall interface of energy trusses can provide a continuous load path in both the shear and uplift directions and can be considered a viable option for residential construction in most areas of the country
