Dialogue with Robots: Constructive Approaches for Understanding Communication

Randy Gomez, Casey Kennington, Koji Inoue, Peter Ford Dominey, Takahisa Uchida, 2025-12-10 In recent years robots that have dialogues with humans have become increasingly common in our daily lives. For example smart speakers and spoken dialogue systems installed in smartphones and robots that interact with people in stores have been developed. Dialogue systems commonly fall under two scenarios of use task oriented and non task oriented. Task oriented systems perform interactions necessary to achieve a specific goal e.g. making a reservation. On the other hand non task oriented systems perform interactions in which the focus of the interaction is the dialogue itself. While the development of speech recognition technology has enabled these systems to interact with people their ability to engage in meaningful dialogue is still limited. This Research Topic focuses on social dialogue with robots which has been actively studied in recent years. This Research Topic calls for papers on the research and development necessary to allow robots and people to engage in rich social dialogue. First we need basic technologies for robots to understand human interaction. In addition to large scale language models which have advanced remarkably in recent years we need technology that enables robots to understand the intent and characteristics of the user. Furthermore technology that enables robots to generate dialogue by applying these technologies is needed. At the same time it is necessary to consider the basic question of why people engage in dialogue. It is also important to promote the construction of robot human and human human social relationships as human robot interaction (HRI). This Research Topic aims to approach these issues and invites papers on these topics.

The third edition features a new section on Critical Theories where a new chapter on Empowerment Theory is included with a completely revised chapter on Feminist Theory. psychology Studies in Meaning 3 Jonathan D. Raskin, Sara K. Bridges, 2008 Constructivist psychotherapy remains somewhat unfamiliar to many clinicians despite offering a variety of innovative and practical therapeutic approaches and techniques. In this volume constructivist psychology is presented as it relates to everyday practice. The chapters provide many examples of what constructivist psychotherapy looks like in the real world showing how one can make the transition from constructivist theory to constructivist practice with ease. Constructivist therapy often gets labeled as too theoretical and lacking in clinical specificity. Yet here is a volume with chapters that succinctly and understandably explicate basic theoretical concepts and then demonstrate them with vivid case examples taken from applied experience in the field.

BOOK JACKET South African Journal of Higher Education, 2008 Applying Counseling Theories Aaron B. Rochlen, 2007 Applying Counseling Theories An Online Case Based Approach offers the power of the Web and the promise of a true understanding of counseling theories. Unique in product design and intellectual approach it combines a book, interactive cases and web based learning into one innovative product. A central goal of this product is to help readers grasp the fundamental principles that govern the application of 16 counseling theories. From Freud to Feminism the authors distill each theory into core principles for applying each theory. Each chapter translates the formal concepts, assumptions and techniques of the theory into user friendly guidelines for working with clients. Reading the book one learns the essence of applying each theory and can delve into the original theorist's work, comprehensive theory books or eclectic counseling approaches with clarity and understanding. Each chapter is authored by a counselor or therapist who uses that particular theory as a foundation for his or her work with clients. Three compelling video cases on the companion website www.prenhall.com/rochlen capture the intake interviews of three diverse clients ranging in age from 17 to 54 and their unique presenting problems and concerns. From each theoretical perspective users of the website are scaffolded through an analysis of the video cases to help them conceptualize each case using the foundational concepts discussed by the authors in the book. Flexible enough to support any core theories text it is also simple enough for all course delivery modes. Using this multi sensory approach readers learn what therapists do, why they do it and how basic theories can be applied in clinical settings.
