Walking New York Stephen Miller, 2014-12-01 THE NEW YORK OBSERVER ONE OF THE TOP 10 BOOKS FOR FALL It's no wonder that New York has always been a magnet city for writers Manhattan is one of the most walkable cities in the world While many novelists poets and essayists have enjoyed long walks in New York not all of them have had favorable impressions Addressing an endlessly appealing subject Walking New York is a study of twelve American writers and several British writers who walked the streets of New York and wrote about their impressions of the city in fiction nonfiction and poetry Seen through the eyes of Walt Whitman Herman Melville William Dean Howells Jacob Riis Henry James Stephen Crane Theodore Dreiser James Weldon Johnson Alfred Kazin Elizabeth Hardwick Colson Whitehead and Teju Cole almost all the works in Walking New York are about Manhattan with only Whitman and Kazin writing about Brooklyn Though the writers were often irritated disturbed and occasionally shocked by what they saw on their walks they were still fascinated by the city William Dean Howells called splendidly and sordidly commercial and Cynthia Ozick called faithfully inconstant magnetic man made unnatural the synthetic sublime In this idiosyncratic guidebook to New York celebrated writers ruminate on questions that are still hotly debated to this day the pros and cons of capitalism and the impact of immigration Many imply that New York is a bewildering text that is hard to make sense of Returning to New York after an absence of two decades Henry James loathed many things about bristling New York while native New Yorker Walt Whitman both celebrated and criticized Mannahatta in his writings Combining literary scholarship with urban studies Walking New York reveals how this crowded dirty noisy and sometimes ugly city gave these restless analysts plenty of fodder for their craft

Profiting from the Peak John Harner,2021-07-01 Colorado Springs Colorado has long profited from Pikes Peak and built an urban infrastructure to sustain that relationship In Profiting from the Peak geographer John Harner surveys the events and socioeconomic conditions that formed the city analyzing the built landscape to offer insight into the origins of its urban forms and spatial layout focusing particularly on historic downtown architecture and public spaces He examines the cultural values that have come to define the city showing how military and other institutions tourism political and economic conditions cultural movements key individual actors and administrative policies have created a singular urban personality Capital accumulation has been a defining theme of Colorado Springs from its very beginning with enormous profits generated from regional industrialization railroads land sales water appropriation and extraction of coal and gold These conditions and its setting in the Rocky Mountain West formed a libertarian oriented limited governance philosophy

This persistent prioritization of liberty at the heart of Colorado Springs's identity specifically the freedom to conduct business and generate profits in a relatively unconstrained setting has directed the urban sprawl of the built landscape and molded the region's political culture. Profiting from the Peak will be of interest to historical and urban geographers, historians of Colorado and the American West and anyone seeking a deeper understanding of the cultural identity of Colorado Springs.

The mutual love affair between people and their place is one of the most powerful influences in our lives yet rarely thought of in terms of a relationship. As cities come to think of themselves as engaged in a relationship with their residents and residents begin to consider their emotional connections with their places, we open up new possibilities in community, social and economic development by including the most powerful of motivators.

the human heart in our toolkit of place making Here we will explore what makes cities lovable what motivates ordinary people to do extraordinary things for their places and how some cities are using that energy to fill in the gaps that official city makers have left as resources disappeared Meet the amazing people who are truly in love with their cities and learn how they are the key resource to the future development of our communities Peter's book takes the age old notion that love is a powerful but intangible force and completely turns it on its head by uniquely illustrating the impact human emotion can have on our cities I strongly recommend For the Love of Cities to all local leaders and anyone who is looking for creative solutions to the challenges facing America's cities Buddy Dyer Mayor of Orlando Florida When it comes to making places better there are so many things we can do beyond those conventionally labeled as planning Most of them involve not the hardware of cities but the software people And the best of them are on display in this remarkable book Jeff Speck AICP author of Walkable City How Downtown Can Save America One Step at a Time In this book Peter goes next level and shows us HOW and WHY our placemaking process can help residents and visitors fall in love with your city all over again This book is for activists engineers planners and community leaders committed to transforming their communities Rebecca Ryan APF Futurists Economist NEXT Generation Consulting The book is a love note from Author Peter Kageyama to cities everywhere that will prompt you to more closely examine your own relationship with where you live work and play Diane Egner Publisher and Managing Editor 83 Degrees Media Former Book Editor The Tampa Tribune What Kageyama has done is to introduce the vital piece into the urban discussion the matter of love the piece without which all city building must fail for love the corner stone of civic citizenship It takes some bravura and acumen to champion the subject of love in the urban forum that wants to quantify when only love qualifies and justifies the discussion of cities Mr Kageyama goes one step further He provides precious indicators Many city thinkers will follow suit but for the time being this is the essential book Pier Giorgio Di Cicco Poet Laureate Emeritus Toronto Ontario Author of Municipal Mind Manifestos for The Creative City Summary of Jeff Speck's Walkable City Everest Media, 2022-05-07T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The obvious answer to how cities can attract creative talent is to provide the sort of environment that these people want Surveys show how creative class citizens especially millennials favor communities with street life 2 The American landscape has changed since the seventies when most teens could walk to school to the store and to the soccer field Now the majority of teenagers do not have driver's licenses 3 The millennials are the biggest population bubble in fifty years Sixty four percent of college educated millennials choose first where they want to live and only then do they look for a job They plan to live in America's urban cores 4 The generation raised on Friends is not the only one looking for new places to live Front end boomers who are citizens that cities want are looking for walkability
