Data Science Henry Han, Erich Baker, 2024-06-26 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Second Southwest Data Science Conference SDSC 2023 held in Waco TX USA during March 24-25, 2023. The 16 full and 1 short paper included in this book were carefully reviewed and selected from 72 submissions. They were organized in topical sections named Business, social and foundation data science, and applied data science, artificial intelligence, and data engineering. The Digital Self Comfort Alorh, 2025-09-15 In an era where our lives are increasingly intertwined with digital platforms, The Digital Self: Redefining Identity in the Age of Social Media, Virtual Worlds, and AI explores the profound impact of technology on self-perception, social interaction, and personal identity. This book delves into the evolution of the digital self, examining how social media, online communities, and virtual spaces have reshaped the way we present ourselves and engage with the world. Blending psychological theories with real-world examples, this book unpacks the dynamics of online self-expression, social validation, and digital reputation. It navigates the tensions between authenticity and curation, the pressures of social comparison, and the shifting boundaries between our real and virtual identities. For anyone curious about how technology influences human behavior or for those looking to understand their own digital presence more deeply, The Digital Self: Redefining Identity in the Age of Social Media, Virtual Worlds, and AI is a thought-provoking and insightful journey into the future of identity in a hyper-connected world. Academic Libraries and Public Engagement With Science and Technology Eileen Harrington, 2019-03-22 Libraries have historically played a role as a community builder, providing resources and spaces where knowledge can be archived, shared, and created. They can also play a pivotal role in fostering the public's understanding of science and scientific processes. From makerspaces to data visualization labs to exhibits, many libraries already delve into scientific explorations, and many more could join them. Scientists often need to include broader impacts goals in grant proposals, but they might not know where to begin or feel that they do not have the time to devote to public engagement. This is where libraries and librarians can help. Research in science communication also supports tapping into libraries for public engagement with science. Studies show that it is important for scientists to present findings in an apolitical way, not aligning with one solution or one way of thinking, and not being seen as an activist. Druckman 2015. Jamieson Hardy 2014. One of the core tenets of librarians and libraries is to present information in a neutral way. Research also shows that informal conversations about science can have a greater effect on people than reading about it online or hearing about it on the news. Eveland Cooper 2013. Again, libraries can play a role in fostering these types of conversations. Given this landscape, this book will demonstrate concrete ways that libraries and librarians can play a role in fostering public engagement with science. In addition to background information on the current landscape of public knowledge and understanding of science, it will also include best practices and case studies of different types of programming and services that libraries can offer. Often, libraries do not jump to mind when people think about science education or science literacy, and many librarians do not come from a science background. Literature on science programming and sharing science is largely absent from the library field This book will help give confidence to librarians that they can participate in engaging the public with science At the same time it will provide a conduit to bring informal science educators communication officers from universities or research organizations who share scientific discoveries with the public and librarians together to explore ways to align their work to promote scientific literacy for all Demonstrates concrete ways that libraries and librarians can play a role in fostering public engagement with science Features best practices and case studies of different types of programming and services that libraries can offer Provides a conduit to bring informal science educators communication officers and librarians together to explore ways to align their work to promote scientific literacy
