Social Networks - Blessing Or Curse? Ruben Picard,2011 Facharbeit Schule aus dem Jahr 2011 im Fachbereich Englisch Erorterungen und Aufsatze Note 2 Stadt Heinrich Heine Gymnasium Mettmann Sprache Deutsch Abstract

In the past few years a great number of social networks have appeared on the internet Though the term social network seems to be something new something associated with the world wide web and new technologies social networks have existed ever since men have Any interacting group of people can be considered a social network and is defined by the relationships between the individuals That makes it really interesting to find a system that was part of our lives from the cradle of humankind being faced with such a young invention called the internet Today every fourth internet user is on Facebook1 that is half a billion people So if Facebook users were a nation it would be the third most populated country in the world after China and India and there are still more users of other social networks that is quite astonishing I decided to write a research paper about social networks on the internet because I could hardly distinguish whether my own use of such services is either beneficial or reprehensible These days new services on the internet that promise to be very entertaining or apparently have a high potential to improve or simplify the way we work and communicate seem to be very attractive to a wide range of internet users While some people are quite sceptical about online services like social networks others tend to use them without even considering any potential risks Are they just blinded by the revolutionary possibilities based on the Web 2 0 or do we actually not have anything to fear The social network Facebook will serve as my basic example for the analysis of social networks because it is the most used and thereby most discussed social network on the world wide web its structure also generally represents other similar networks These social networks are surprising. Using Emerging Technologies to Enhance Student Engagement Reynol Junco, Dianne M. Timm, 2008 Today's college students have never known a time when personal computers did not exist They attended K 12 schools where most of their classrooms were equipped with computers Information technology has always been part of their learning process not to mention the impact it has had on the development of their friendships research and writing skills shopping and choice of college or university to attend They expect that institutions of higher education will respond to their inquiries without delay much in the same way that customer service is handled on the Web Student expectations are driving the creation of live Web chats in house social networking sites university wiki and shared virtual spaces Unfortunately higher education faculty and staff in general and student affairs professionals in particular are behind the curve in their use of information technology Student affairs professionals are only starting to become aware that they should learn about the technologies that students have already integrated into their lives It is imperative that student affairs professions understand these technologies and learn how to implement them to enhance student learning build a sense of community increase student engagement facilitate communication This volume examines recent research on how information technology is affecting college student development and explores ways in which institutions are responding to increased demands for using emerging technology in supporting students This is the 124th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services an indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs deans of students student counselors and other student services professionals Each issue of New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual
