

Having a Yard Sale

Story By: Andrew Frinkle

It was yard sale time again, and everyone in the Jones family was getting their stuff ready. Each person in the family was responsible for cleaning out their closets and storage spaces, and setting up a table out in front of the house. They would each sell and keep the money they made from their own table.

Billy, the youngest, sorted through his toys. He put several damaged robots in his yard sale box, along with some other games he was tired of. He also found some clothes that didn't fit any longer, because he was taller now than he had been a few months ago.

Suzy, the middle child, decided to part with a handful of her prized stuffed animals from her collection. It was just getting far too large, and there were some that looked dingy or she just didn't love as much as she used to. She also found some old books that were too babyish and a few accessories she'd grown out of.

Regina, the eldest, was nearly in high school. She had music CDs, some roller skates, some clothes, and a whole bunch of girly stuff to get rid of. She had the most clothes of any of the kids to get rid of. She got tired of things fast, and needed money for new ones!

Dad had some old tools he could part with, some records he didn't listen to, some computer parts, a few things from his garage, and a few out-of-style jackets and suits. It was always easy for him to get ready, though, because he didn't seem too attached to anything, unless it was useful, like fishing stuff or tools.

Mom had a few items to get rid of. She chose some handbags, some shoes, and some clothes she didn't care for anymore. She also found some dishes that were parts of old sets where most of the other dishes were lost or broken. There were some knickknacks and cutesy stuff she wanted gone, too.

Together, the five of them set up their tables and manned them from 7 A.M. on. It was a big thing, to decorate one's table and get all the merchandise set up in the most attractive way. Each of them had their own money piles, too, to help make change if someone bought something.

The crowds came early and the buying and selling was fierce. From 7:30 until 9:30, there was hardly a chance to take a break. Many people brought young kids, so Billy did well, selling out of toys quickly. Girls liked Suzy's stuffed animals, and a few teenagers snagged up most of Regina's fashions. Mom and Dad had the most stuff, so their items took longer to sell, but they also made more money for it.

In the end, Billy made $22, Suzy made $18, and Regina made $43. Mom and Dad made a bit more, on account of having more things and having more expensive things. Dad made $143, and mom made $97. It was quite a good day. Everyone was happy about the results, even if a few things didn't sell and had to be put back in boxes or the garage for next time. Already, ideas were forming in each person's head about how to spend the money they'd earned!

The Reading Mind Daniel T.

Willingham, 2017-04-10 A Map to the Magic of Reading Stop for a moment and wonder what's happening in your brain right now as you read this paragraph. How much do you know about the innumerable and amazing connections that your mind is making as you in a flash make sense of this request? Why does it matter? The Reading Mind is a brilliant, beautifully crafted and accessible exploration of arguably life's most important skill: reading. Daniel T. Willingham, the bestselling author of Why Don't Students Like School?, offers a perspective that is rooted in contemporary cognitive research. He deftly describes the incredibly complex and nearly instantaneous series of events that occur from the moment a child sees a single letter to the time they finish reading. The Reading Mind explains the fascinating journey from seeing letters then words sentences and so on, with the author highlighting each step along the way. This resource covers every aspect of reading, starting with two fundamental processes: reading by sight and reading by sound. It also addresses reading comprehension at all levels, from reading for understanding at early levels to inferring deeper meaning from texts and novels in high school. The author also considers the undeniable connection between reading and writing, as well as the important role of motivation as it relates to reading. Finally, as a cutting-edge researcher, Willingham tackles the intersection of our rapidly changing technology and its effects on learning to read and reading. Every teacher, reading specialist, literacy coach, and school administrator will find this book invaluable. Understanding the fascinating science behind the magic of reading is essential for every educator. Indeed, every reader will be captivated by the dynamic but invisible workings of their own minds.
