Student Name:

Sign languages are the unique and natural form of communication developed by the deaf community, consisting of hearing-impaired people using gestures, facial expressions, and body movements for effective meaning. These languages are different from natural languages and their grammar follows very closely to existing natural languages, consisting of gestures, movements, and body postures.

The history of sign language shows that it existed, though in various other names, and in various regions of the world, much earlier than through documentation of these names. However, written records that could prove the existence of sign languages are very old, around 1500 BC, showing evidence of these names in various regions of the world, such as Egypt, Greece, and Rome.

The evolution and development of sign language goes back to the 18th century. French educators, such as Charles-Michel de l'Epee, and Jean-Baptiste de la Billaderie, started teaching the deaf children in Paris, France, education, according to their own education, and then spreading the education to other countries. This is the beginning of the first school for the deaf, which is now known as the first school for the deaf in the world. The first school for the deaf, located in Paris, France, was established in 1755, and it is now known as the first school for the deaf in the world.

Learning to communicate through sign languages is not an easy task. There are many different types of sign languages, including American Sign Language (ASL), British Sign Language (BSL), and French Sign Language (FSL). These languages are not only used by deaf people, but also by hearing people who are learning sign languages for various reasons.

The evolution of sign languages is interesting. They are natural, the language, grammar, meaning, and pronunciation, are all based on their signs. This results in a significant change in sign languages, as they are not based on any specific language, but the meaning of a sign language is based on the meaning of the sign language itself.

Simplified Signs: A Manual Sign-Communication System for Special Populations, Volume 1. John D.

Bonvillian, Nicole Kissane Lee, Tracy T. Dooley, Filip T. Loncke, 2020-07-30 Simplified Signs presents a system of manual sign communication intended for special populations who have had limited success mastering spoken or full sign languages. It is the culmination of over twenty years of research and development by the authors. The Simplified Sign System has been developed and tested for ease of sign comprehension memorization and formation by limiting the complexity of the motor skills required to form each sign and by ensuring that each sign visually resembles the meaning it conveys. Volume 1 outlines the research underpinning and informing the project and places the Simplified Sign System in a wider context of sign usage historically and by different populations. Volume 2 presents the lexicon of signs totalling approximately 1000 signs each with a clear illustration and a written description of how the sign is formed as well as a memory aid that connects the sign visually to the meaning that it conveys. While the Simplified Sign System originally was developed to meet the needs of persons with intellectual disabilities, cerebral palsy, autism or aphasia, it may also assist the communication needs of a wider audience such as healthcare professionals, aid workers, military personnel, travellers or parents and children who have not yet mastered spoken language. The system also has been shown to enhance learning for individuals studying a foreign language. Lucid and comprehensive, this work constitutes a valuable resource that will enhance the communicative interactions of many different people and will be of great interest to researchers and educators alike.
