Crisostomo Ibarra returns as Simoun after thirteen years of leaving the Philippines. A wealthy jeweler sporting a beard and blue-tinted glasses, and a confidant of the Captain-General. Abandoning his idealism, he becomes a cynical saboteur, seeking revenge against the Spanish Philippine system responsible for his misfortunes in plotting a revolution. Simoun insinuates himself into Manila high society and influences every decision of the Captain-General to mismanage the country's affairs so that a revolution will break out. He cynically sides with the upper classes, encouraging them to commit abuses against the masses to encourage the latter to revolt against the oppressive Spanish colonial regime. This time, he does not attempt to fight the authorities through legal means, but through violent revolution using the masses.

Simoun has reasons for instigating a revolution. First is to rescue Maria Clara from the convent and second, to get rid of ills and evils in the Philippine society. His true identity is discovered by a now grown-up Basilio while visiting the grave of his mother, Sisa, as Simoun was digging near the grave site for his buried treasures. Simoun spares Basilio's life and asks him to join in his planned revolution against the government, egging him on by bringing up the tragic misfortunes of the latter's family. Basilio declines the offer as he still hopes that the country's condition will improve. Basilio, at this point, is a graduating student of medicine at the Ateneo Municipal de Manila. After the death of his mother, Sisa, and the disappearance of his younger brother, Crispin, Basilio heeded the advice of the dying boatman, Elias, and traveled to Manila to study. Captain Tiago adopted Basilio after Maria Clara entered the convent. With Captain Tiago's help, Basilio was able to go to Colegio de San Juan de Letran where, at first, he is frowned upon by his peers and teachers not only because of the color of his skin but also because of his shabby appearance.

Captain Tiago's confessor, Father Irene, is making Captain Tiago's health worse by giving him opium even as Basilio tries hard to prevent Captain Tiago from smoking it. He and other students want to establish a Spanish language academy so that they can learn to speak and write Spanish despite the opposition from the Dominican friars of the Universidad de Santo Tomas.
