Model-Driven Development of Akoma Ntoso Application Profiles Amelie Flatt, Arne Langner, Olof Leps, 2023-01-01
This book presents a model driven approach for creating a national application profile of the international legislative document standard Akoma Ntoso AKN. AKN is an XML based document standard that serves as the basis for modern machine readable and fully digital legislative and judicial processes. The described model driven development approach ensures consistent and error proof application of AKN concepts and types even when using different software tools. It allows for easy maintenance, is self documenting and facilitates stakeholder validation with nontechnical legal experts. The resulting application profile remains fully compliant to and compatible with AKN. For the sake of illustration, the approach is paradigmatically applied to the German federal legislative process as a corresponding approach was used in the creation of the German AKN application profile LegalDocML. We discuss how the methodology yields a model schema definition and specification that correspond to the artefacts created by LegalDocML, using examples from Germany. The book is of interest to both legal and technical project teams on the cusp of introducing AKN in a legislative domain and intended as a practical guideline for teams preparing to create a custom application profile for their own domain. Furthermore, it can serve as both a resource and an inspiration for similar and yet to be developed methodologies in the public sector, the health sector or in defense where international standardization and interoperability efforts are to be applied to a local level.

Handbook of Research on AI Methods and Applications in Computer Engineering Kaddoura, Sanaa, 2023-01-30
The development of artificial intelligence (AI) involves the creation of computer systems that can do activities that would ordinarily require human intelligence, such as visual perception, speech recognition, decision making, and language translation. Through increasingly complex programming approaches, it has been transforming and advancing the discipline of computer science. The Handbook of Research on AI Methods and Applications in Computer Engineering illuminates how today's computer engineers and scientists can use AI in real world applications. It focuses on a few current and emergent AI applications, allowing a more in depth discussion of each topic. Covering topics such as biomedical research, applications, navigation systems, and search engines, this premier reference source is an excellent resource for computer scientists, computer engineers, IT managers, students, and educators of higher education, librarians, researchers, and academicians.

Entrepreneurship and Digital Humanities Francesca Spigarelli, Louise Kempton, Lorenzo Compagnucci, 2024-11-08
Addressing the growing need for integration between STEM and the social sciences and humanities, this book reinterprets the role of entrepreneurship education. It explores how universities can adapt to the rapid change and challenges of the job market brought by digital and green transitions.

Managing Technology and Middle- and Low-skilled Employees Claretha Hughes, Lionel Robert, Kristin Frady, Adam Arroyos, 2019-07-23
Managing Technology and Middle and Low Skilled Employees explores the rapidly changing use of digital and systems innovations in the management of specific sectors of the workforce in the modern workplace across different industrial contexts

Lawfully Using Autonomous Weapon Technologies

Jonathan Kwik,2024-08-02

This monograph provides a practical and operational perspective to the question of how to lawfully employ autonomous weapon systems AWS from the point of view of the technology's end users field commanders. While there is international consensus that targeting rules such as proportionality and precautions must be respected when using AWS, there is legal and practical ambiguity as to how to translate this normative commitment into practice. How are commanders in the field when guns are already blazing expected to exercise command and control when ordering AWS attacks and ensure that their targeting obligations remain fulfilled? The book discusses how commanders can use existing targeting frameworks to ensure that their use of AWS remains in compliance with the rules governing the conduct of hostilities. It invites the reader to step into the shoes of the military commander with all the operational pressure and uncertainty inherent to this position and explores amongst others: How to maintain control of AWS throughout a targeting cycle; How to make informed and reasoned deployment decisions by analysing information related to the technical parameters of the AWS, the characteristics of the operational environment and enemy countermeasures; Under which circumstances AWS may not be used under targeting rules such as indiscriminate attack, proportionality and the duty to cancel/suspend; What extra precautionary measures unique to AWS technology can and should be employed; When it is militarily desirable to employ AWS over other alternatives; and Under what circumstances criminal liability may be attributed for AWS-related harm. It offers both academic and practical outputs: new legal and doctrinal insights on the technology that is useful for future legal developments and workable recommendations and efficient flowcharts that can be adopted by commanders, military organisations or policymakers to ensure IHL-compliant deployment of AWS. Dr Jonathan Kwik is a researcher at the T M C Asser Institute in The Hague, specialised in artificial intelligence and targeting law, and is a member of the Board of Experts of the Asia Pacific Journal of International Humanitarian Law.

Fear of Seeing Mingwei Song,2023-10-03 Winner 2023 SFRA Book Award Science Fiction Research Association. A new wave of cutting edge risk-taking science fiction has energized twenty-first century Chinese literature. These works capture the anticipation and anxieties of China's new era, speaking to a future filled with uncertainties. Deeply entangled with the politics and culture of a changing China, contemporary science fiction has also attracted a growing global readership. Fear of Seeing traces the new wave's origin and development over the past three decades, exploring the core concerns and literary strategies that make it so distinctive and vital. Mingwei Song argues that recent Chinese science fiction is united by a capacity to illuminate what had been invisible, what society had chosen not to see, what conventional literature had failed to represent. Its poetics of the invisible opens up new literary possibilities and inspires new ways of telling stories about China and the world. Reading the works of major writers such as Liu Cixin and Han Song, as well as lesser-known figures, Song explores how science fiction has spurred larger changes in contemporary literature and culture. He analyzes key topics variations of utopia and dystopia cyborgs and the posthuman and nonbinary perspectives on gender and genre among many more A compelling and authoritative account of the politics and poetics of contemporary Chinese science fiction Fear of Seeing is an important book for all readers interested in the genre's significance for twenty first century literature
