Crime Scenes, 2021-11-01 The essays in this collection are based on papers given at a conference on detective fiction in European culture held at the University of Exeter in September 1997 The range of topics covered is designed to show not only the presence and variety of narratives of detection across different European countries and their different media although there is a predictable emphasis on the novel It also illustrates the fertility of the genre its openness to a spectrum of readings with different emphases formal as well as thematic Approaches to detective fiction have often tended to confine them selves to symptomatic interpretation where details of the fictional world represented are used to diagnose a specific set of social preoccupations and priorities operative at the time of writing Such approaches can yield valuable insights Nonetheless there is a risk of limiting the value of the genre as a whole solely to its role as a mirror held up to society In this perspective issues of structure and style are sidelined or if addressed are praised to the extent that they approach invisibility concision spareness realism are the qualities singled out for praise The genre also gives much scope for formal innovation and indeed has often attracted already established mainstream writers and filmmakers for just this reason The eclectic diversity of the detective narratives considered in this volume reveal the malleability of the traditional constraints of the genre The essays bear rich testimony to the value of considering the interplay of thematic and structural issues even in the most apparently unselfconscious and popular or populist forms of narrative The patterns of reassurance the triumph of intellect and the ordered rational world of old are now challenged by the need to foreground the problems ambiguities and uncertainties of the self and of society The plurality of meanings and the antithetical imperatives explored in these detective narratives confirm that the most recent forms of the genre are not mere palimpsests of their golden age precursors The subversion of traditional expectations and the implementation of diverse stylistic devices take the genre beyond mere homage and pastiche The role of the reader spectator and critic in conferring meaning is a crucial one Fin de millénaire French Fiction Ruth Cruickshank,2009-10-08 The turn of the millennium in France coincided with a number of tangible crises and apocalyptic discourses and with the growth of the mass media and global market further generating and manipulating crisis In this original wide ranging but closely analytical study Cruickshank contextualizes and reads the work of four influential writers of prose fiction Angot Echenoz Houellebecq and Redonnet teasing out each one's response to this convergence She suggests that the recurrent fictional and cultural trope of the turning point has both aesthetic and critical potential Bringing together analyses spanning literature thought and culture she identifies and critiques the ways in which on the eve of the twenty first century different theoretical and fictional approaches confront the manipulation of crisis discourses Drawing on a long twentieth century of crisis thinking Cruickshank counters the perception that a postmodern model of perpetual crisis is culturally dominant and establ Noir and

Blanchot William S. Allen,2020-01-23 In dark or desperate times the artwork is placed in a difficult position Optimism seems naive while pessimism is no better During some of the most demanding years of the 20th century two distinctive bodies of work sought to respond to this problem the writings of Maurice Blanchot and American film noir Both were seeking not only to respond to the times but also to critically reflect them but both were often criticised for their own darkness Understanding how this darkness became the means of responding to the darkness of the times is the focus of Noir and Blanchot which examines key films from the period including Double Indemnity and Vertigo alongside Blanchot's writings particularly his 1948 narrative Death Sentence What emerges from this investigation is the complex manner in which these works disrupt the experience of time and the event and in doing so expose an entirely different mode of material expression Library of
