The Law and Autonomous Vehicles Matthew Channon, Lucy McCormick, Kyriaki Noussia, 2019-01-03 When will we see autonomous vehicles on our roads The answer is that to some degree they are already here Numerous organisations are testing fully autonomous prototypes on public roads in the UK and even commercially available vehicles already have several quasi autonomous features KPMG has forecasted that the connected and autonomous vehicles market could be worth as much as 51 billion to the British economy by 2030 and could create some 30 000 new jobs over the same period Accordingly the UK and a number of other jurisdictions are already implementing legal reforms with a view to smoothing the path for this technology Notably Parliament has passed the Automated and Electric Vehicles Act 2018 dealing with the insurance of such vehicles and changes are currently being made to the Road Vehicle Construction and Use Regulations 1986 and to the Highway Code to accommodate highly automated technologies The government has also issued non statutory guidance in relation to testing on public roads and in relation to vehicle cybersecurity Against this rapidly changing landscape this book analyses the key legal issues facing autonomous vehicles including testing on public roads insurance product liability and cyber security and data protection It also examines the approach being taken in other jurisdictions including Austria Germany Greece Italy the USA and South Africa Driver Training for Automated Vehicles Siobhán E.

Merriman, Katherine L. Plant, Kirsten M. A. Revell, Neville A. Stanton, 2024-04-30 Since the introduction of Automated Vehicles AVs on roads there have been a number of high profile collisions which have highlighted significant driver challenges These include challenges associated with drivers trust in the automation their knowledge and awareness of the AV s capabilities and limitations and their reduced situation awareness of the road environment and the vehicle Solutions are needed to overcome these challenges so that the expected benefits of AVs can be realised Driver Training for Automated Vehicles A Systems Approach identifies the training requirements for drivers of AVs and takes a systematic approach to design develop implement and evaluate a comprehensive training package to address these requirements This book explores how training can overcome the driver challenges associated with AVs by improving drivers mental models trust in automation decisions and behaviour when activating a Level 4 AV It presents a systematic approach to the training lifecycle by first presenting the current state of research into AVs identifying the challenges and training requirements for drivers of AVs and then developing and evaluating a training programme to achieve these requirements This fascinating title highlights the need for drivers to undergo training for AVs and takes us a step closer to this need It walks readers through a systematic four step process and provides practical guidance to develop and evaluate an effective training programme The reader will develop a thorough understanding of the current driver challenges with AVs and the methods and systems to mitigate them through current knowledge and research This book is an ideal read for practitioners designers and academics with a professional or research interest in AVs Its appeal extends to those in the fields of automotive design Systems Engineering Human Factors and education and training Photonics Applications in Industry and Research IV, 2005
