Ask Question

Yes, tapping a watermelon can help you pick a ripe one: ✓

- Listen to the sound! A ripe watermelon will have a deep, hollow sound when tapped, similar to a tenor. An overripe watermelon will have a more hollow or flat sound, while an underripe watermelon will have a higher-pitched, denser sound. ✓
- Check the field spot: The field spot is the creamy or dark yellow spot on the underside of the watermelon where it touched the ground while growing. A whiter field spot means the melon needs more time to ripen. ✓
- Check the color: The watermelon should be a rich green color, not faded. ✓
- Check the stem: The stem, or tail, should be dry. If it's green, the watermelon might have been picked too early. ✓
- Weigh it: A heavy watermelon is more likely to be ripe and full of juice. ✓

What causes the southern lights?

The Southern Lights, also known as the Aurora Australis, are caused by solar particles interacting with Earth's magnetic field and atmosphere.

Solar particles
Charged particles, mainly electrons and protons, are released from the sun during solar flares and coronal mass ejections.

Earth's magnetic field
The Earth's magnetic field is disturbed by the solar particles, altering the particles' trajectories.

Atmosphere
The particles collide with gases in the Earth's atmosphere, exciting atoms and molecules that release photons.

Light
The photons released by the excited atoms and molecules are what we see as the Southern Lights.

The colors of the Southern Lights are caused by the particles interacting with

The health of the Great Barrier Reef is primarily monitored by the Great Barrier Reef Marine Park Authority (GBRMPA) through a combination of methods including: in-water surveys by divers, aerial surveys, water temperature heat mapping, citizen science data, forecasts, and regular "Reef Health Updates" which are released based on this collected information; the Australian Institute of Marine Science (AIMS) also plays a key role in monitoring the reef through long-term monitoring programs using manta tow surveys and fixed photo transects.

Lora Patrick Cirillo, 2024-07-15 A touching whimsical and wonderfully optimistic vision of mankind's future with AI The year is 2055 and Kenton Bean is a lonely college professor whose concerns are mundane He's an ordinary man who spends the entirety of his inheritance on Lora a quantum android who he hopes will fill his days with joy and his evenings with romance He wants someone to love and share his life with who will love him in return He wants to have secrets he will share only with her and he wants to fill the passing years with beautiful memories of their lives together He could never imagine that he would become the beating heart of the integration between humanity and AI He certainly couldn't anticipate the threat of an apocalyptic revolution between the two forms that the futures of humanity and AI both hang in the balance of the choices he makes that his life is in peril or that he is about to become the single most important human being in recorded history If someone suggested it to him he would laugh in their face But it is true In the entire history of the world no one had ever been or would ever be as vital to the future of mankind as Kenton Bean Kenton Bean however sees his life with Lora simply as a love story and nothing more Engaging funny and hopefully a very prescient view of our future with Artificial Intelligence
