Reading Comprehension

Read the passage and answer the questions.

The Great Depression was a severe economic downturn that began in 1929 and lasted until the mid-1930s. It was the longest and deepest economic recession in the history of the United States.

The Federal Reserve raised the interest rate to combat inflation, which led to a sharp decline in the stock market. The economy then entered a period of deflation, with prices falling and unemployment rising.

During the Great Depression, many Americans lost their jobs and homes. The government took action to provide relief to the unemployed and to stabilize the economy.

One of the most famous programs was the New Deal, which was a series of economic programs and reforms initiated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The New Deal included the creation of the Social Security Administration, the Federal Reserve, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The New Deal also included the creation of the Federal Housing Administration, the Federal Reserve, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The New Deal was a turning point in American history, as it marked the beginning of a new era of government intervention in the economy.
