Andrew Penman's Long Unwinding Road Andrew Penman, 2012-10-02 At a very young age I always knew I would have an accident and would be doing everything that I am doing at present from health and fitness to aikido My first physiotherapist Debbie Harris maiden name got me on my feet and taught me to walk again saying The rest is up to you People with damage to the right temporal lobe are partially psyched I am also in a mildly euphoric state which means I am happy all the time Old friends I had before the accident said I have exactly the same sense of humor I suppose it is the brain's way of keeping me in the dark about the situation I was in I would like to give my mother special thanks as she gave up her life to look after me My wife Lalita who says there is no one else on this planet like me My aikido sensei Peter Gillard who always stood by me Kenetsuka Sensei who overcame cancer through his aikido practice and the countless others who have helped me at vital stages and important times during my long and winding journey on the road to recovery The aim of this book is to give able and disabled people hope as when I had the accident I had no one to guide me or to follow as surviving a traumatic brain injury was virtually unheard of but now they are keeping people alive on a ventilator I had to learn by my mistakes Fortunately they weren't many It's all been a very slow job No pain no gain     How We Write Now Jennifer C. Nash, 2024-06-28 In How We Write Now Jennifer C Nash examines how Black feminists use beautiful writing to allow writers and readers to stay close to the field's central object and preoccupation loss She demonstrates how contemporary Black feminist writers and theorists such as Jesmyn Ward Elizabeth Alexander Christina Sharpe and Natasha Trethewey mobilize their prose to ask readers to feel undo and reassemble themselves These intimate invitations are more than a set of tools for decoding the social world Black feminist prose becomes a mode of living and feeling dreaming and being and a distinctly affective project that treats loss as not only paradigmatic of Black life but also an aesthetic question Through her own beautiful writing Nash shows how Black feminism offers itself as a companion to readers to chart their own lives with and in loss from devastating personal losses to organizing around the movement for Black lives Charting her own losses Nash reminds us that even as Black feminist writers get as close to loss as possible it remains a slippery object that troubles memory and eludes capture     A New Beginning in Sight Eric J Arnott, 2022-02-26 Consultant eye surgeon Eric Arnott was one of the original pioneers of small incision surgery He was the first to perform modern Phaco surgery in Europe
