Truth and the Absence of Fact Hartry H. Field, 2001 Hartry Field presents a selection of thirteen essays on a set of related topics at the foundations of philosophy one essay is previously unpublished and eight are accompanied by substantial new postscripts Five of the essays are primarily about truth meaning and propositional attitudes five are primarily about semantic indeterminacy and other kinds of factual defectiveness in our discourse and three are primarily about issues concerning objectivity especially in mathematics and in epistemology The essays on truth meaning and the attitudes show a development from a form of correspondence theory of truth and meaning to a more deflationist perspective The next set of papers argue that a place must be made in semantics for the idea that there are questions about which there is no fact of the matter and address the difficulties involved in making sense of this both within a correspondence theory of truth and meaning and within a deflationary theory Two papers argue that there are questions in mathematics about which there is no fact of the matter and draw out implications of this for the nature of mathematics And the final paper argues for a view of epistemology in which it is not a purely fact stating enterprise This influential work by a key figure in contemporary philosophy will reward the attention of any philosopher interested in language epistemology or mathematics Truth and the Absence of Fact Hartry Field, 2001-03-01 Hartry Field presents a selection of thirteen essays on a set of related topics at the foundations of philosophy one essay is previously unpublished and eight are accompanied by substantial new postscripts Five of the essays are primarily about truth meaning and propositional attitudes five are primarily about semantic indeterminacy and other kinds of factual defectiveness in our discourse and three are primarily about issues concerning objectivity especially in mathematics and in epistemology The essays on truth meaning and the attitudes show a development from a form of correspondence theory of truth and meaning to a more deflationist perspective The next set of papers argue that a place must be made in semantics for the idea that there are questions about which there is no fact of the matter and address the difficulties involved in making sense of this both within a correspondence theory of truth and meaning and within a deflationary theory Two papers argue that there are questions in mathematics about which there is no fact of the matter and draw out implications of this for the nature of mathematics And the final paper argues for a view of epistemology in which it is not a purely fact stating enterprise This influential work by a key figure in contemporary philosophy will reward the attention of any philosopher interested in language epistemology or mathematics Book symposium on Hartry Field's Truth and the absence of fact, 2005 Conceptions of Truth Kunne, 2003-06-05 Truth is one of the most debated topics in philosophy Wolfgang Kunne presents a comprehensive critical examination of all major theories Conceptions of Truth is organized around a flow chart comprising sixteen key questions ranging from Is truth a property to Is truth epistemically constrained Kunne expounds and engages with the ideas of many thinkers from Aristotle and the Stoics to Continental analytic philosophers like Bolzano Brentano and Kotarbinski to such leading figures in current debates as Dummett Putnam

Wright and Horwich He explains many important distinctions between varieties of correspondence for example between different conceptions of making true between various kinds of eternalism and temporalism which have so far been neglected in the literature Kne argues that it is possible to give a satisfactory modest account of truth without invoking problematic notions like correspondence fact or meaning And he offers a novel argument to support the realist claim that truth outruns justifiability The clarity of exposition and the wealth of examples will make Conceptions of Truth an invaluable and stimulating guide for advanced students and scholars in metaphysics epistemology and the philosophy of language
