How to Use Them Henry Stanhope Bunting, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1913 edition. Excerpt Chapter XXVI HOW TO ADVERTISE III THE CONTROL OF RESULTS Having prepared and placed your publicity safeguarded by all the foregoing precautions what should be the results The results will depend upon two things 1 upon how you maintain the publicity with reference to time and 2 upon whether you increase the quantity of it or not These two factors as you observe are entirely within the control of the advertiser Let us analyze these matters in detail If with a given publicity properly placed and kept at the same level of selling power according to the rules laid down in what has gone before your advertising appropriation is neither increased nor diminished year after year the results will be as follow Your sales will increase until they reach an equilibrium with all the selling power your publicity has They will increase until all the selling power has been satisfied They will increase until all buyers are buying as much of your goods as the selling power can absorb Having reached that equilibrium they will stay there as long as the publicity is maintained at the level represented by the annual appropriation If now your appropriation be increased year after year or month after month what will be the result in that case In that case the sales will increase until the grand equilibrium is reached They will increase until all buyers in the market have been satisfied They will increase until further increase in the appropriation cannot bring further increase in sales And they will stay at that level as long as the volume of the publicity is kept at the maximum of selling power or above it Such a grand equilibrium however calls for a national advertising activity that costs enormous sums of money and spreads
