Trends in Language Assessment Research and Practice Vahid Aryadoust, Janna Fox, 2016-02-29

Despite prodigious developments in the field of language assessment in the Middle East and the Pacific Rim, research and practice in these areas have been underrepresented in mainstream literature. This volume takes a fresh look at language assessment in these regions and provides a unique overview of contemporary language assessment research. In compiling this book, the editors have tapped into the knowledge of language and educational assessment experts whose diversity of perspectives and experience has enriched the focus and scope of language and educational assessment in general and the present volume in particular. The six trends addressed in the 26 chapters that comprise this title consider such contemporary topics as data mining in class assessment and washback. The contributors explore new approaches and techniques in language assessment including advances resulting from multidisciplinary collaboration with researchers in computer science, genetics and neuroscience. The current trends and promising new directions identified in this volume and the research reported here suggest that researchers across the Middle East and the Pacific Rim are playing and will continue to play an important role in advancing the quality, utility and fairness of language testing and assessment practices.
