Social Knowledge In The Making:

Social Knowledge in the Making Charles Camic, Neil Gross, Michèle Lamont, 2012-07-24 Over the past quarter century researchers have successfully explored the inner workings of the physical and biological sciences using a variety of social and historical lenses Inspired by these advances the contributors to Social Knowledge in the Making turn their attention to the social sciences broadly construed The result is the first comprehensive effort to study and understand the day to day activities involved in the creation of social scientific and related forms of knowledge about the social world The essays collected here tackle a range of previously unexplored questions about the practices involved in the production assessment and use of diverse forms of social knowledge A stellar cast of multidisciplinary scholars addresses topics such as the changing practices of historical research anthropological data collection library usage peer review and institutional review boards Turning to the world beyond the academy other essays focus on global banks survey research organizations and national security and economic policy makers Social Knowledge in the Making is a landmark volume for a new field of inquiry and the bold new research agenda it proposes will be welcomed in the social science the humanities and a broad range of nonacademic settings

The Production of Knowledge Colin Elman, John Gerring, James Mahoney, 2020-03-19 A wide ranging discussion of factors that impede the cumulation of knowledge in the social sciences including problems of transparency replication and reliability Rather than focusing on individual studies or methods this book examines how collective institutions and practices have often unintended impacts on the production of knowledge

A Social History of Truth Steven Shapin, 1994-06-15 In A Social History of Truth a leading scholar addresses these universal questions through an elegant recreation of a crucial period in the history of early modern science the social world of gentlemen philosophers in seventeenth century England Steven Shapin paints a vivid picture of the relations between gentlemanly culture and scientific practice He argues that problems of credibility in science were solved through the codes and conventions of genteel conduct trust civility honor and integrity

Becoming Mead Daniel R. Huebner, 2014-10-10 George Herbert Mead is a foundational figure in sociology best known for his book Mind Self and Society which was put together after his death from course notes taken by stenographers and students and from unpublished manuscripts Mead however never taught a course primarily housed in a sociology department and he wrote about a wide variety of topics far outside of the concerns for which he is predominantly remembered including experimental and comparative psychology the history of science and relativity theory In short he is known in a discipline in which he did not teach for a book he did not write In Becoming Mead Daniel R Huebner traces the ways in which knowledge has been produced by and about the famed American philosopher Instead of treating Mead's problematic reputation as a separate topic of study from his intellectual biography Huebner considers both biography and reputation as social processes of knowledge production He uses Mead as a case study and provides fresh new answers to critical questions in the social sciences such as how authors come to be considered canonical in particular disciplines how academics understand and use others works in their research and how claims to authority and knowledge are made in scholarship Becoming Mead provides a novel take on the history of sociology placing it in critical dialogue with cultural sociology and the sociology of knowledge and intellectuals The Roots of Social Knowledge Charles Horton Cooley,1993

Knowledge Mobilisation and Social Sciences Jon Bannister,Irene Hardill,2016-03-17 The essays presented in this volume examine knowledge mobilisation and its relation to research impact and engagement The social sciences matter because they can help us to understand and address the complex challenges confronting society This is particularly true in an era of significant downward pressure on public expenditure a consequence of the global fiscal crisis when there is a striking need to ensure that policies are demonstrably effective and efficient The impact agenda in the UK reflected in parallel global debates actively encourages the social sciences to make and demonstrate a difference to justify and protect social science funding This volume shows how knowledge mobilisation can be thought of systematically as a process encompassing engagement leading to the co production and channelling of knowledge to make a difference in the economy and society This book was originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Social Science The Social Welfare Forum National Conference of Social Work (U.S.). Transformation in Social Knowledge K. J. Gergen,2012-12-06 This century has been characterized by a strong and pervasive belief in certainty through science It is a belief that has been nurtured by philosophers scientists and governing bodies alike And where vocal reassurance has failed to convince modern technology has more than compensated It has in effect been a century in at last to be making significant headway toward objective which humankind seemed and enduring truth Yet as the century winds toward its conclusion this optimistic belief has begun to confront a challenging array of attacks Widespread signals of concern are increasingly evident and in the philosophy of science little but remnants remain of the bold rationale that once promised truth through method One now senses a profound alteration taking place in both the concept of knowledge and of science an alteration that may prove to be as significant as the Copernican revolution the emergence of Darwinism or the development of Freudian theory As a result of the latter transformations humans are no longer seen as the center of the universe as essentially different from animals or as fully conscious of the wellsprings of their activity In the present case however we confront the loss of the human capacity for objective knowledge Publication of
