Adaptations

Terms to Know

- Physical Adaptation: Special body parts that help an animal survive.
- Behavioral Adaptation: An action or behavior that helps an animal survive.
- Population: A group of organisms of the same kind that live in the same place.
- Fossil: Preserved remains or impressions of a living organism.

Fossils

Fossils help scientists make inferences about past life and conditions in the areas where they discover fossils.

For example, a paleontologist discovers the fish fossil in the desert of Arizona. The paleontologist can infer that the area once was covered in water and fish were part of the ecosystem. This means that the desert could have had a lake, pond, or other body of water many years ago.

Changes to Habitats

For populations to survive, they need to be able to find food, defend themselves, and reproduce.

If that environment changes, populations need to adapt or move to a new environment to survive.

For example, a herd of wildebeest migrate to watering hole. The herds share in the oasis and increasing rainfall is decreasing. Soon, the water hole dries up. The herds need to find another water source nearby or move to a different habitat to survive.

Adaptations

Physical Adaptations

- grasshoppers camouflage in the grass
- snapping turtles mimic sticks

Behavioral Adaptations

- geese migrating in the winter
