Criticism and feedback talks using Meyer's Culture Map and Hofstede's Value Dimensions. How to ideally criticize individual employees and teams in Japan and the USA ,2021-02-19 Seminar paper from the year 2020 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources Miscellaneous grade 1 3 Aachen University of Applied Sciences language English abstract This paper uses the theoretical foundations of Hofstede s Cultural Dimensions and Meyer s Cultures Map to develop feedback guidelines for a Dutch manager in Japan and a French manager in the USA For this purpose the countries concerned are first classified and compared using Meyer s and Hofstede s cultural classification methods Based on the theoretical foundation feedback guidelines are developed for the respective managers With regard to the Dutch manager in Japan it is particularly evident that he should be careful to use a language that is not too direct and that he needs to adapt to the Japanese high context culture in both speech and behavior The French manager in the USA is advised mainly to use diplomacy and understand flatter hierarchies and greater willingness to take risks In a further step the developed guidelines are compared with feedback rules of the Dutch company Philips and the French company WEKA In both theory and practice great importance is attached to an efficient discussion structure At Philips importance is also attached to a conversation at eye level and the employee s point of view which corresponds with the theoretical findings In the French example less emphasis is placed on preparation which is surprising in terms of the theoretical classification of France Instead a calm and non violent communication is called for which to a certain extent is also addressed in the theoretically based guideline The results of the term paper provide assistance for managers in Japan and the USA However it must be remembered that cultures are a very complex construct and that due to the scope of this term paper it was not possible to include all components Managers are advised to deal intensively with the host country s culture in order to ensure appropriate and efficient interaction with employees The results also suggest further studies on the topic Thereby additional theoretical approaches as well as experience reports from managers in practice should be included Due to the constantly evolving worldwide cultural diversity insightful findings can be expected

How Do British People Communicate Differently to Those of Other Cultures? Does Exposure to the British Lessen Such Differences? Michael Coates, 2017-11-15 Research Paper undergraduate from the year 2017 in the subject Cultural Studies Miscellaneous grade Conference Paper Peer Reviewed University of Antwerp Global Advances In Business Communication language English abstract This paper deals with how British people interpret typical business phrases in comparison to other nationalities It moves on to identify whether regular exposure to British people negates any such differences The findings confirmed those of Meyer regarding the preferred level of context when communicating and differences in providing feedback In addition a statistical analysis of phrase interpretations shows a strong correlation between British respondents and non British respondents who have had regular exposure to the British The paper concludes that managers with staff in other countries plus those involved in Brexit negotiations should be aware that those with little exposure to the British are more likely to misinterpret business communications from a British person Research by Meyer detailed in the book The Culture Map Breaking through the Invisible Boundaries of Global Business describes specific variations in how people from different cultures communicate and consider ideas at work Using online surveys telephone interviews and focus groups with English speakers from a wide range of countries our research assessed whether as Meyer had found British people interpret typical business phrases differently to other countries
