These findings have implications for the design of training programs for the use of the new technologies. The results suggest that training should focus on the development of specific skills and knowledge related to the use of the new technologies, rather than on general knowledge or theory. This is because the results show that the use of the new technologies is highly task-specific and requires a high level of skill and knowledge. Therefore, training programs should be designed to provide participants with the specific skills and knowledge they need to use the new technologies effectively. This can be achieved through a combination of theoretical and practical training, with a focus on the development of specific skills and knowledge related to the use of the new technologies.
