You can always switch on the battery 100% Protection mode. This will maximize the working autonomy of the OptiPilot 100. Depending on your performance on the flight mode of each section, you will have a more difficult or less difficult overall control of each section. As a result, a maximum potential guidance is provided. There are no overlapping sections. In any of the sections (e.g., Fly-in, Fly-out, Landing and Takeoff, Hold, etc. for example, you will get back to fly-in, landing and takeoff sections of the route you are running) (The status of the first is indicated in the status bar). You can also switch the mode to the dual section (and back).
