Truth About Lies Andy Shea:

The Truth about Lies Andy Shea, Steven Van Aperen, 2006 Steve Van Aperen is Australia's foremost expert with the polygraph machine what many of us call a lie detector But a polygraph can't really tell if someone is lying only whether or not they are feeling anxious or afraid which is how most people feel when they are lying After years of experience and training Van Aperen can tell just by looking and listening whether or not someone is feeling that fear and probably telling a lie whether they are attached to the polygraph or not Andy Shea draws on Van Aperen's expertise and uses examples from history and the present day to show how you can learn to tell whether someone is trying to pull the wool over your eyes at work at home or anywhere

Current Law Index, 2007 The Aesthetics of Violence in Contemporary Media Gwyn Symonds, 2011-11-03 The topic of violence in the media seems as inundated as can be Countless studies and research projects have been conducted mostly to show its negative effects on society What Gwyneth Symonds proposes though takes this significant topic one step further studying the aesthetics of media violence By defining key terms like the graphic nature and authenticity of violent representations and discussing how those definitions are linked to actual violence outside the film and television screen Symonds broadens the arena of study Engagingly written The Aesthetics of Violence in Contemporary Media fills an important gap Symonds uses existing studies for the empirical audience reception data together with discussions of the different representations of violence to look at violence in the media as an art form in of itself By looking at The Simpsons Bowling for Columbine and Norma Khouri's Forbidden Love just to name a few Symonds cross analyzes violence in multiple media to see their affective role in audience reception an important aspect when discussing media The book strikes a balance between the readers need to see how theory matches what actually happens in the texts in question and the demands of a theoretical overview

Stanko, 2024-07-05 The policing of rape is in permacrisis This book addresses the question of why police investigations continue to fail most rape victim survivors and puts forward a framework for what policing can do to change this Low conviction rates and poor victim survivor experiences are the hallmarks of the rape justice gap Three decades of research policy and legal changes have tweaked rape investigations to alleviate some of their ills however for the majority of victim survivors the process remains gruelling Police forces are notoriously resistant to reform even in the face of rapidly declining public trust The starting point of this book is the recognition that if we want profound change in policing we must try something new To do so the authors move from asking What is it about rape that makes it so difficult for police to investigate it well to asking What is it about the police that makes it so difficult for police to investigate rape well Policing Rape sets out a practice oriented theoretical framework for radically and sustainably transforming rape investigations rape prevention and the quality of officer engagement with victim survivors The authors reflect on the journey of putting this framework into practice within Operation Soteria Bluestone as a step on the path towards a radical transformation of rape policing This book is essential reading for all those looking to understand and improve the policing of rape
