Initiating Change in Highland Ethiopia Dena Freeman, 2002-10-17 In a rural community in Southern Ethiopia there are two types of rituals performed by the same people Historical evidence suggests that one has shown remarkable stability over the years while the other has undergone massive transformations External factors are the same so how is this to be explained In this 2002 book Dena Freeman focuses on ethnographical and historical data from the Gamo Highlands of Southern Ethiopia to tackle the question of cultural change and transformation She uses a comparative perspective and contrasts the continuity in sacrificial rituals with the rapid divergence and differentiation in initiations Freeman argues that although external change drives internal cultural transformation the way in which it does is greatly influenced by the structural organization of the cultural systems themselves This insight leads to a rethinking of the analytic tension between structure and agency that is at the heart of contemporary anthropological theory

The Book of Highland Verse Dugald Mitchell, 1912 Highland Park Julia Johnas, 2007 Highland Park represents one of the finest examples of late 19th century suburban development Its abundant natural beauty was quickly recognized and preserved by the visionary design of two well known landscape architects Horace W S Cleveland and William M R French Capitalizing on the setting and boasting good schools good churches and good society the Highland Park Building Company transformed the scenic village into one of the most desirable communities on Chicago's North Shore attracting socially prominent residents who built gracious lakefront estates and quiet country homes along its bluffs and shady lanes Historic photographs illustrate the transformation from forest and farmland to a fashionable residential community and capture the social civic and business accomplishments of Highland Park's early citizens The city's early progress and prosperity are celebrated in this book

The Later Medieval City David Nicholas, 2014-06-17 The Later Medieval City 1300-1500 the second part of David Nicholas's ambitious two volume study of cities and city life in the Middle Ages fully lives up to its splendid precursor The Growth of the Medieval City Like that volume it is fully self sufficient though many readers will want to use the two as a continuum This book covers a much shorter period than the first That traced the rise of the medieval European city system from late Antiquity to the early fourteenth century this offers a portrait of the fully developed late medieval city in all its richness and complexity David Nicholas begins with the economic and demographic realignments of the last two medieval centuries These fostered urban growth raising living standards and increasing demand for a growing range of urban manufactures The hunger for imports and a shortage of coin led to sophisticated credit mechanisms that could only function through large cities But if these changes brought new opportunities to the wealthy they also created a growing problem of urban poverty violence became endemic in the later medieval city Moreover although more rebellions were sparked by taxes than by class conflict class divisions were deepening Most cities came to be governed by councils chosen from guild members and most guilds were dominated by merchants The landowning elite that had dominated the early medieval cities of the first volume still retained its prestige but its wealth was outstripped by the richer merchants while craftsmen who had little political influence were further disadvantaged as access to the guilds became more restricted The later medieval cities developed permanent bureaucracies providing a huge range of public services and they were paid for by sophisticated systems of taxation and public borrowing The survival of their fuller richer records allow us not only to apply a more statistical approach but also to get much closer to the splendours and squalors of everyday city life than was possible in the earlier volume The book concludes with a set of vibrant chapters on women and children and religious minorities in the city on education and culture and on the tenor of ordinary urban existence Like its predecessor this book is massively and vividly documented Its approach is interdisciplinary and comparative and its examples and case studies are drawn from across Europe from France England Germany the Low Countries Iberia and Italy with briefer reviews of the urban experience elsewhere from Baltic to Balkans The result is the most wide ranging and up to date study of its multifaceted subject It is a formidable achievement A Highland Chronicle Samuel Bayard Dod,1892 Waverly Novels: The betrothed and the Highland widow Walter Scott,1897 Turmoil in High Land? Roland Rodene,2014-10-14 For when it concerns Haiti fiction is never very far from reality and vice versa Luc Remy professor author of Strategic Reflections on Haiti This novel is the story of a man who lives and breathes High Land in the very fiber of his being This man is Anglaisien He carries a thousand and one memories of things and people both seen and heard as well as life stories and experiences He learns two astonishing and extraordinary truths firstly that he has been given a mission to publish His Mother s Cause and secondly that she will be the Mother of All Nations Now he and the ravishing Ms Oloffson cross paths If in the beginning there was Adam and Eve on the eve of the emergence of the Land of Nations there is Anglaisien and Ms Olofsson Given their passion for High Land will they become king and queen The emergence of High Land Land of All Nations and this new center of the universe will this soon take place In this work of marvelous magical and prophetic allure many worlds many levels of symbolism mystery and knowledge seem to exist together interconnect or intersect The places numbers and characters seem allegorical and resemble carriers of coded messages Tales of unrest Joseph Conrad,1920 Highland Bride Colleen Faulkner,2000 Scotland of the 17th century is the setting of this tale of forbidden love When Kara Gordon s husband dies she is forced by contract to marry her husband s heir his 12 year old brother As forces outside the castle try to remove the boy from the throne Kara is caught up in a passionate affair with his half brother and protector Crisis and Conflict in Agriculture Rami Zurayk,Eckart Woertz,Rachel Bahn,2018-09-18 This volume sets out to explore the dialectic relating agriculture crisis and conflict and attempts to expand the knowledge on these interactions Part 1 of the volume chapters 1 6 discusses thematic issues and methodological approaches to understanding the intersection of agriculture crisis and conflict Part 2 chapters 7 20 provides case studies that take a detailed approach to understanding agricultural contexts facing crisis and conflict or the role played by agriculture within crisis and conflict Studies are selected from areas that might be expected to feature in such a volume the Middle East and North Africa sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and Latin America as well as less obvious regions where conflict within agriculture refers not to widespread violence or wars but rather latent or simmering crisis Central Asia and Europe Crises stemming from politically driven violence natural disasters and climate change are covered as well as competition over resources Almayer's folly.
