Distributed Training and Rural Health Professions Education Roger Peter Strasser, Julian Wright, Mohamed Elhassan Abdalla, Julia Blitz, Jana Vera Muller, Lachlan Van Schaik, 2026-01-12 Distributed health professions education also referred to as decentralized training in the medical education literature is rapidly being adopted by academic institutions where clinical training occurs at sites outside of the tertiary academic hospitals Often distributed education enhances exposure to social determinants of health accommodates an increasing number of students encourages the social accountability of students and provides opportunity for work integrated learning and service learning opportunities Socially accountable distributed learning often involves community engagement based on interdependent partnerships between communities academic institutions health service delivery organizations and health professionals There is evidence to support the value of distributed training as it relates to improved service delivery and patient satisfaction at the training sites increased interest and opportunity for professional development of clinical teachers involved in students training and improved opportunities for interprofessional education Distributed education includes rural health professions education and should be considered as such for the remainder of this call Distributed training also includes the majority of longitudinal integrated clerkships which are growing in health professions education globally Education and training of healthcare professionals involving place based distributed training poses particular challenges due to distance from the urban academic institutions limited local human resources and variable information technology availability These challenges can include access to training materials and lectures limitations to clinical supervision and challenges with social integration of students in the environment But there are also benefits to training healthcare professionals on the distributed training platform especially for extended periods of time which include students understanding of integration into and contribution to the health care system Students often report feeling part of the health care team and report a greater sense of responsibility in the management of their patients Health professions education should be adapted for application on the distributed training platform as proposed by available literature however each context is unique and presents various opportunities and challenges Insight into distributed training innovations adopted by institutions can influence the way distributed training is initiated customized and implemented across the globe This collection will consider all aspects of distributed training and the education of health professionals in order to increase understanding of both the challenges and the benefits to this model of training We aim to encourage discussion around new approaches or adaptations to under and post graduate distributed education from low middle and high income countries globally Specific areas of interest include but are not limited to Opportunities and challenges of distributed training Practical considerations for the implementation of distributed training including case studies Benefits and challenges specific to the training of students professional development and satisfaction of rural healthcare professionals Innovative approaches to health professions education specific to distributed training in a variety of contexts Approaches to improving the education or professional development of rural healthcare professionals Innovations in interprofessional education and collaborative practice on the distributed training platform Community engagement that supports co creation co development co delivery and co evaluation of distributed education Place based research involving health professionals learners health service delivery organizations and communities All article types are welcome to this Research Topic please find more information about these here Please note that all submitted manuscripts undergo our rigorous peer review process and Article Processing Charges apply upon acceptance APCs vary with article type more information here or contact medicine submissions frontiersin org with any questions Topic Editor Julia Blitz is a part time employee of iheed Training Limited All other Topic Editors declare no conflicts of interest

Planning Training for Firefighters Edenilson Brandl, The preparation of firefighters is a responsibility that extends far beyond technical instruction physical conditioning or procedural compliance It is an ethical operational and societal commitment to ensure that those entrusted with protecting life property and the environment are equipped with the highest possible standards of competence and judgment This work was conceived to address that responsibility through a comprehensive and structured approach to professional training Modern emergency response operates within an increasingly complex landscape shaped by evolving hazards technological advancements and heightened public expectations Training systems that once relied primarily on tradition or isolated skill acquisition must now be integrated evidence informed and continuously adaptive This volume reflects that reality by framing training as a dynamic system rather than a static curriculum The purpose of this work is not merely to inform but to guide challenge and elevate those involved in the planning delivery and evaluation of firefighter training It seeks to serve as a reference for instructors officers program managers and institutions committed to excellence resilience and accountability in the fire service United States Statutes at Large United States,2012 Volumes for 1950 19 contained treaties and international agreements issued by the Secretary of State as United States treaties and other international agreements

Promoting Sustainable Local and Community Economic Development Roland V. Anglin,2017-09-25

Growing local economies empowering communities revitalizing downtowns developing entrepreneurship building leadership and enhancing nonprofits you can achieve all these benefits and more with a comprehensive and strategic revitalization plan

Chronicling the struggle of local revitalization as organizers move from trial and error to effective revitalization strategies

Promoting Sustainable Local and Community Economic Development documents the current transformation in community revitalization from market based incentives to mixed strategies of public sector learning partnerships and community capacity

Knowledge about the field and what works is growing but not always publicized and readily accessible This reference surveys the breadth of innovative place and people development practices presenting lessons and examples at a general and textured level putting information about innovative ways to change influence and improve the economic development process within easy reach

Roland Anglin brings his unique vantage point to the topic his experience as a practitioner and applied academic allowed him to see how community economic development practices grow over time in size scale and impact

He highlights the difference between what is now termed community economic development CED and traditional local economic development practice specifically the priority placed on community involvement in economic development partnerships between the private sector and government

The book includes case studies that demonstrate what has and has not worked in revitalization efforts as well as how active public and private sector partnerships have been the most effective in revitalization efforts

A Resource Guide is included at the end of the book for readers who may want a more expansive understanding of community economic development
