GREETING

- Use full name of recipient
- Avoid using "To Whom It May Concern"
- Options: Dear Hiring Manager, Human Resources, etc.

Dear Jamie Jung:

I am writing to apply for the R&D Product Development Summer Intern position, found on WPI's Handshake system. I am currently a junior pursuing a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering. Gompel Engineering's focus on sustainable practices through innovative design fits well with my career interests and experience. This is demonstrated by my recent group project in Santa Fe, NM designing a self-sustaining water irrigation system for high altitudes.

Through my academic project work I have developed abilities in 3-D design and modeling, an understanding of materials, and have practiced different manufacturing technologies. For example, in my Manufacturing Science, Prototyping, and Computer-Controlled Machining course, I along with two teammates created mechanical drawings and designs in SolidWorks. We then modeled, machined, and assembled the parts of a working Stirling engine, meeting all requirements and deadlines.

In addition to academic team projects that require collaboration and strong writing and presentation skills, I also have honed my leadership and communication skills as the Vice-President of the WPI Marching and Pep Band. Throughout all my experiences, I have used my dedication to efficient and creative problem solving and my ability to prioritize and manage competing demands. I am eager to apply my engineering knowledge and skills at Gompel Engineering and look forward to speaking with you about the internship.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Aisha Humphrey

ADDITIONAL TIPS

- Tailor your cover letter for every position you apply for by avoiding a generic one-size-fits-all approach.
- Use the position description and company info on the website as a guide.
- Avoid clichés ("I am a team player," "I'm a hard worker," "I have good communication skills").
- Highlight your strengths ("I have advanced technical skills"), but always follow up with a specific example. "Show don't tell."
- Remember to focus on Content—Action—Results (CAR) ("Results" can also refer to your approach and process and what you gained from the experience).
- The overall tone should be "this is what I can do for you /this is how I will add value to your company."
- Avoid common phrases such as "My name is" (you already have your name in the signature), "I am" (same as "My name is"), "I am willing to work hard and learn a lot", "I will call you to arrange an interview."

Use and Impact of Computers in Clinical Medicine James G. Anderson, Stephen J. Jay, 2012-12-06 Computer technology has impacted the practice of medicine in dramatic ways Imaging techniques provide noninvasive tools which alter the diagnostic process Sophisticated monitoring equipment presents new levels of detail for both patient management and research In most of these high technology applications the computer is embedded in the device its presence is transparent to the user There is also a growing number of applications in which the health care provider directly interacts with a computer In many cases these applications are limited to administrative functions e.g. office practice management location of hospital patients appointments and scheduling Nevertheless there also are instances of patient care functions such as results reporting decision support surveillance and reminders This series Computers and Medicine focuses upon the direct use of information systems as it relates to the medical community After twenty five years of experimentation and experience there are many tested applications which can be implemented economically using the current generation of computers Moreover the falling cost of computers suggests that there will be even more extensive use in the near future Yet there is a gap between current practice and the state of the art
