Bailey, 1896 Redemption and the Merchant God Susan McReynolds Oddo, 2008 Dostoyevsky's antisemitism manifested in his writings of the 1870s seems to contradict his humanism and many critics have tended to dismiss it as a marginal detail of the writer's views Argues however that antisemitism held an important place in Dostoyevsky's ethical system and was linked to his vexed relationship with Christianity Notes that he staunchly held three ethical principles sanctity of children incompatibility of ethics with utilitarianism and calculation and the view that every kind of authority was bound by the same moral strictures as individuals Thus he could not accept a God who had sacrificed his son or a redemption brought about by the suffering of a child Jesus Dostoyevsky invented the image of a Jew onto whom he could project everything that was unacceptable to him in religion and Western ethics He considered the merchant ethics of both liberalism and socialism to be a Jewish idea and in particular regarded the politics of the Jew Disraeli as an embodiment of such ethics to sacrifice innocent Balkan Slavs in the name of supreme political principles In the 1870s Dostoyevsky increasingly contrasted the Russian conception of God and compassion for the weak with the Jewish Western merchant God and the idea of obtaining benefits for one person from the suffering of another innocent person He developed a conception of principal opposition between things Russian and things Jewish
