EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK

You've probably figured out a few mistakes to avoid already but you'd probably be surprised at what many employers are turned off by when reading cover letters

Lack of proofreading This is a no brainer but many people often miss them or don't bother to spell check before sending out the cover letter and resume

It's always a good idea to ask a friend or family member to check your letter for spelling errors and typos to give you a fresh perspective

Not including the name of the hiring manager

If you don't know who is going to read your cover letter and resume try to find out

When in doubt call the company and ask who the person in charge of that department is so you can target your letter appropriately

Not writing to an audience

Focus each letter on each employer

According to Career Builder 44 percent of executives polled said it's common for applicants to use their cover letters to show they've learned more about the job

Doing so can give you an edge against the competition

Failing to sell yourself

If you undersell your skills and qualifications you won't make an impression on the reader

Don't just talk about your accomplishments give concrete examples

Regurgitating the resume

Cover letters weren't meant as a tool to repeat everything that's in your resume

It's a tool to build on it and an opportunity to correlate your experience with the job you're applying for

Include any training classes awards and recognition you've received in the past that might give you an edge over the competition
