Thyrsa George Gissing:

Thyrsa. a Tale, by George Gissing (Novel) Classic Reprint George Gissing, 2016-05-02 Between 1880 and 1903 George Gissing wrote 23 novels His early works were naturalistic and later he wrote in a realistic style Gissing is considered to be a late Victorian author Gissing tells the story of the martyrdom of Thyrsa Tennant She is pregnant by Andy McAdam who not only refuses to marry her but also marries her sister Laura instead Thyrsa never reveals the identity of the father Barton Gorse loves Thyrsa and wants to marry her but she refuses believing that if she does marry him everyone will think Barton is the father Thyrsa is a woman of strength and high character The late Victorian novelist George Gissing 1857-1905 is best known for New Grub Street and The Odd Women two books that he wrote in mid life Other than these two novels Gissing's works frequently are difficult to find Interested readers frequently must search for dubious offprint editions This is particularly the case for Gissing's earlier books which have a strongly personal autobiographical component Of his first seven novels six are set among the working class poor of London A small English publisher called Victorian Secrets has assumed the role of publishing Victorian novels that tend to be forgotten including several novels of Gissing In 2010 Victorian Secrets published Gissing's rare first novel Workers in the Dawn followed in 2011 by Gissing's third novel Demos Victorian Secrets has now published Gissing's fifth novel Thyrsa written in 1887 and published in a revised edition in 1891 As does its companions the Victorian Secrets edition of Thyrsa is beautifully produced with a readable reliable version of the text Pierre Coustillas the distinguished Gissing scholar and the author of a recent three volume biography edited the volume as well as the earlier two volumes prepared the endnotes and wrote an insightful introduction to the book The introduction includes as well a short biography of Gissing and a bibliography of studies of Thyrsa The edition includes as well an essay by David Gryllis Kellogg College Oxford discussing the changes Gissing made in the book between the first version in 1887 and the revised version of 1891 Finally the book includes maps of the two worlds inhabited by the primary characters of the book Thyrsa Trent and Walter Egremont Thyrsa's world centers upon the working class community of Lambeth while Egremont is more at home in the Lake District and in Eastbourne While this edition makes Thyrsa accessible to new readers it offers something new to those who already know the book Virtually every edition and reprint of the book uses Gissing's 1891 revision In this edition Coustillas opts to use Gissing's original 1887 text He thus takes an already long text and makes it somewhat longer In the revised version Gissing eliminated some narrative editorializing and also cut an extensive subplot that occurs in the final third of the novel Readers familiar with other editions of Thyrsa will be able to compare the two versions Those new to the book will have a longer read than otherwise but they will get to know Thyrsa It is valuable for readers devoted to Gissing to have the original version available Thyrsa George Gissing, 2018-11-01 Thyrsa George Gissing, 1900 Thyrsa George Gissing, 1900 Thyrsa George R. The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History Lieven Ameel, Jason Finch, Silja Laine, Richard Dennis, 2019-08-12

The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History explores a variety of geographical and cultural contexts to examine what literary texts have grasped as material objects and what urban materialities have to offer for urban history. The contributing writers' approach to literary narratives and materialities in urban history is summarised within the conceptualisation of materiality in literature: the way in which literary narratives at once refer to the material world and actively partake in the material construction of the world. This book takes a geographically multipolar and multidisciplinary approach to discuss cities in the UK, the US, India, South Africa, Finland and France whilst examining a wide range of textual genres from the novel to cartoons, advertising copy, architecture and urban planning, and archaeological writing. In the process, attention is drawn to narrative complexities embedded within literary fiction and to the dialogue between narratives and historical change.

The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History has three areas of focus: literary fiction as form of urban materiality, literary narratives as social investigations of the material city, and the narrating of silenced material lives as witnessed in various narrative sources.
