Use the chart below to record information about the international relations that followed the Cold War.

Former Allies Diverge

What caused the Cold War?

The United States and the Soviet Union were once allies during World War II. In 1945, after they agreed to defeat Germany and Japan, they found themselves at odds. The United States and the Soviet Union had different goals and visions for the world. The United States wanted a world of free people, while the Soviet Union wanted a world of controlled people.

The United States and the Soviet Union had different ideas about the world. The United States wanted a world of free people, while the Soviet Union wanted a world of controlled people. The United States wanted a world of free people, while the Soviet Union wanted a world of controlled people.
