Ruud, 2017-12-01 Teaching STEM Literacy is comprised of ready made open ended lessons reviewed and tested by teachers which help educators integrate STEM learning into the early childhood classroom Lessons are linked to the Next Generation Science Standards and encourage creative ideas for three dimensional STEM learning that are developmentally appropriate and exemplified through children's literature. The three-dimensional STEM learning content concepts and practices comes in twelve ready-made open-ended teaching units that make it easy to teach science and inquiry to young children. This book uses the 5E framework: engagement, exploration, explanation, elaboration, and evaluation to cultivate children's skills of observation, questioning, and data collection by combining discovery, problem-solving, and engineering solutions to authentic questions that young children might ask.

Juliana Texley holds a master's in biology and chemistry and a PhD in curriculum development/science education from Wayne State University and has over thirty years of teaching experience. She is a graduate-level adjunct professor specializing in educational technology and assessment/science and science teaching at Central Michigan University and Lesley University in Massachusetts. Texley has been a National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) member for thirty years and served as president from 2014-2015. She is on the board for Young Voices for the Planet and led the development and evaluation of online learning programs for JASON Learning.

Ruth M. Ruud has over thirty-five years of teaching experience ranging from early childhood to undergraduate studies. She has a master's degree in education with additional coursework in all areas of science. A former Delta Education FOSS Full Option Science System consultant, Ruth currently works as an adjunct professor teaching physical geography courses at Cleveland State University. She served as president of the Pennsylvania Science Teachers Association and has chaired a number of committees of the National Science Teachers Association. NSTA is a member of the NSTA Recommends committee and is the head reviewer for the NSTA Shell Science Lab Challenge.

Planning on the Edge Nick Gallent, Johan Andersson, Marco Bianconi, 2006-09-27. More than a tenth of the land mass of the UK comprises urban fringe: the countryside around towns that has been called planning's last frontier. One of the key challenges facing spatial planners is the land use management of this area, regarded by many as fit only for locating sewage works, essential service functions, and other un-neighbourly uses. However, to others it is a dynamic area where a range of urban and rural uses collide. Planning on the Edge fills an important gap in the literature, examining in detail the challenges that planning faces in this no-man's land. It presents both problems and solutions and builds a vision for the urban fringe that is concerned with maximising its potential and with bridging the physical and cultural rift between town and country. Its findings are presented in three sections: the urban fringe and the principles underpinning its management; sectoral challenges faced at the urban fringe, including commerce, energy, recreation, farming, and housing; managing the urban fringe more effectively in the future. Students, professionals, and researchers alike will benefit from the book's structured approach, while the global and transferable nature of the principles and ideas underpinning the study will appeal to an international audience.
