relationship between the developing India US strategic Partnership and Pakistan's security. It assesses India and the US's areas of cooperation to show that the partnership will bring drastic changes for India's military capabilities and modernization of its forces. The book shows that in addition to enhancing India's domestic nuclear stockpiles through the nuclear cooperation agreement, collaboration in high tech areas such as space and innovative technologies will enable India to acquire sophisticated delivery systems as well as surveillance capacity. The author argues that these advancements will enable India to destabilize the strategic balance in the region. The book also briefly explores the nuclear doctrines of India and Pakistan that provide an insight into the role of nuclear weapons in maintaining deterrence in the region. To understand the power dynamics caused by the strategic partnership and their impact on strategic stability in South Asia, the author utilizes the Balance of Power and Power Transition theories. The Marketing of War in the Age of Neo-Militarism Kostas Gouliamos, Christos Kassimeris, 2013-05-13. The post 9/11 era and the overall impact of international terrorism have generated much debate regarding the role of military apparatus in modern society. This book assesses the inherent meaning of the militarization from a critical interdisciplinary perspective. Against the background of democracy and capitalism, The Marketing of War in the Age of Neo Militarism challenges prevailing accounts of the military industrial complex as it explores significant interrelated themes denoting the accelerating process of militarization of society. Designed to address pressing socio-political phenomena, this book is the first of its genre contesting conventional wisdom about the perceived link between war and the military industrial complex. It is unique not merely because of its approach but also for its thorough analysis of deeply affected social institutions and processes such as education, popular culture, geopolitics, military expenditure, space and the environment. Contributing authors advance the discussion by exposing factual information demonstrating the nature and scope of society's militarization. Their analysis is also broadened to encompass key concepts and diverse aspects of the subject matter that provoke a lively debate. The book offers compelling arguments that will be indispensable to scholars, students, professionals and policy and decision makers with an interest in social and political sciences as well as in other related fields.

Defying Victimhood Albrecht Schnabel, Anara Tabysaliev, 2012 Opportunities for sustainable peacebuilding are lost and sustainable peace is at risk when significant stakeholders in a society's future are excluded from efforts to heal the wounds of war and build a new society and a new state Yet women are routinely marginalized unnoticed and underutilized in such efforts Defying Victimhood uses comparative case studies and country studies from post conflict contexts in different parts of world to produce insights for understanding women as both victims and peacebuilders The book traces the road that women take from victimhood to empowerment and highlights the essential partnerships between women and children and how they contribute to survival and peace Drawing particularly on African cases the authors examine national and global efforts to right past wrongs as well as the roles of women in political and security institutions They argue that for women in post conflict societies defying victimhood means being an activist peacebuilder and above all a full participant in post war social economic political and security structures access to which all too often has unjustly and unwisely been denied
