Singapore From Temasek To The 21st Century Reinventing The Global City:

Singapore from Temasek to the 21st Century Karl Hack, Jean-Louis Margolin, Karine Delaye, 2010 Once a centre for international trade and finance Singapore has become a global city Singapore from Temasek to the 21st Century Reinventing the Global City examines its evolution from trading port to city state showing how Singapore has repeatedly reinvented itself by creating or re asserting qualities that helped attract capital talent and trade In the 14th century the island s prosperity rested on regulating the regional carrying trade passing through the Straits of Melaka In 1819 after a long period of decline the British East India Company revived the island s fortune by making Singapore a free port and trade sustained the city until the Japanese occupation and the postwar collapse of colonial rule After independence Singapore resumed its role as a major commercial and financial center but added facilities to make the island a regional centre for manufacturing More recently it has transformed its population into an educated and highly skilled workforce and has made the island an education hub that is a magnet for research and development in fields such as biotechnology Singapore s dramatic evolutionary struggle defies description as a sequentially unfolding narrative or merely as the story of a nation In this volume an international group of scholars examines the history of Singapore as a series of discontinuous and varied attempts by a shifting array of local and foreign actors to optimise advantages arising from the island s strategic location and overcome its lack of natural resources publisher website

Managing Global Risks in the Urban Age Yee-Kuang Heng, 2016-03-03 The first full length exposition of what it terms a global city global risks nexus this volume crosses disciplinary boundaries to draw upon research from Security Studies Geography Sociology and Urban Studies Innovative in its approach integrating theories about Global Cities with those positing a Global Risk Society Yee Kuang Heng positions this research in the midst of two concurrent global trends that will gain more significance in coming years The world is experiencing the consequences of not only rapid globalisation but also urbanization In 2008 the UN declared that more than half the world's population was now urban. At the same time highly connected global cities like New York, London, Tokyo, and Singapore also face rapidly spreading global risks such as pandemics and financial crises. Unique in developing a typology of global risks that threaten a global city like Singapore beyond its Asian focus, the book also draws out thematic and policy lessons pertinent to other global cities. Global cities do not simply materialize. They are dependent on a range of stakeholders at various levels that produce and reproduce its command and control capabilities in the face of global risks. Singapore's experiences managing global risks in the financial, aviation, and maritime domains are common concerns shared by many countries and cities that have or aspire to develop similar critical infrastructure.

Nyonya Needlework and the Printed Page. Early Malay Printing in Singapore. The Symbolism Behind the Third Charter of Justice. Seven Hundred Years Chong Guan Kwa, 2019. Assessments of Singapore's history invariably revolve around Sir Stamford Raffles' arrival in 1819. Before this date, we've been told nothing very much appears to have happened in Singapore. Pre-1819 Singapore was a sleepy, historically insignificant fishing village, little more than the occasional resort of pirates. This ambitious book, co-written by four of Singapore's foremost historians, offers an assertive re-evaluation of that view, firmly situating Singapore's starting point seven hundred years ago. Drawing on a multi-disciplinary range of archival, textual, and cartographical records, as well as the latest archaeological discoveries, the authors cast a singular historical trajectory for Singapore over the past seven centuries, animating its history like never before. Written in a compelling and accessible manner and richly illustrated with more than 200 artefacts, photographs, maps, art works, and ephemera, this volume builds upon the foundations of an earlier book, Singapore: A 700 Year History. Extensively rewritten to incorporate ground-breaking research findings, Seven Hundred Years: A History of Singapore widens the historical lens and offers a vital new perspective on the story of Singapore. Who's who in Finance and Business, 2008. Singapore Robert Powell, 2000. The leading authority on tropical Asian architecture, Robert Powell examines 90 major projects in Singapore at the turn of the 21st century. These projects show dramatically how globalization has shaped the economy and skyline of the island city-state. Singapore Architecture of a Global City presents the work of nearly 40 locally based practices and over 20 internationally renowned signature architects through full-colour photographs and drawings teamed with essays and commentary. Beyond the Port City Giok Ling Ooi, Brian J. Shaw, 2004. Governing Global-City Singapore Kenneth Paul Tan, 2016-12-19. This book provides a detailed analysis of how governance in Singapore has evolved since independence to become what it is today and what its prospects might be in a post-Lee Kuan

Yew future Firstly it discusses the question of political leadership electoral dominance and legislative monopoly in Singapore's one party dominant system and the system's durability Secondly it tracks developments in Singapore's public administration critically analysing the formation and transformation of meritocracy and pragmatism two key components of the state ideology Thirdly it discusses developments within civil society focusing in particular on issues related to patriarchy and feminism hetero normativity and gay activism immigration and migrant worker exploitation and the contest over history and national narratives in academia the media and the arts Fourthly it discusses the PAP government's efforts to connect with the public including its national public engagement exercises that can be interpreted as a subtler approach to social and political control In increasingly complex conditions the state struggles to maintain its hegemony while securing a pre eminent position in the global economic order Tan demonstrates how trends in these four areas converge in ways that signal plausible futures for a post LKY Singapore

Global City Making in Singapore Sun Sheng Han, 2005

Planning Singapore Stephen Hamnett, Belinda Yuen, 2019-05-08 Two hundred years ago Sir Stamford Raffles established the modern settlement of Singapore with the intent of seeing it become a great commercial emporium and fulcrum But by the time independence was achieved in 1965 the city faced daunting problems of housing shortage slums and high unemployment Since then Singapore has become one of the richest countries on earth providing in Sir Peter Hall's words perhaps the most extraordinary case of economic development in the history of the world The story of Singapore's remarkable achievements in the first half century after its independence is now widely known In Planning Singapore The Experimental City Stephen Hamnett and Belinda Yuen have brought together a set of chapters on Singapore's planning achievements aspirations and challenges which are united in their focus on what might happen next in the planning of the island state Chapters range over Singapore's planning system innovation and future economy housing biodiversity water and waste climate change transport and the potential transferability of Singapore's planning knowledge A key question is whether the planning approaches which have served Singapore so well until now will suffice to meet the emerging challenges of a changing global economy demographic shifts new technologies and the existential threat of climate change Singapore as a global city is becoming more unequal and more diverse This has the potential to weaken the social compact which has largely existed since independence and to undermine the social resilience undoubtedly needed to cope with the shocks and disruptions of the twenty first century The book concludes however that Singapore is better placed than most to respond to the challenges which it will certainly face thanks to its outstanding systems of planning and implementation a proven capacity to experiment and a highly developed ability to adapt quickly purposefully and pragmatically to changing circumstances

Surviving and Resisting the Global City Terence Chong,2004 Local Encounters in a Global City Anju Mary Paul,2017 Global City Futures Natalie Oswin,2019 Global City Futures offers a queer analysis of urban and national development in Singapore the Southeast Asian city state commonly cast as a leading global city Much discourse on Singapore focuses on its extraordinary socioeconomic development and on the fact that many city and national governors around the world see it as a developmental model But counternarratives complicate this success story pointing out rising income inequalities the lack of a social safety net an unjust migrant labor regime significant restrictions on civil liberties and more With Global City Futures Natalie Oswin contributes to such critical perspectives by centering recent debates over the place of homosexuality in the city state She extends out from these debates to consider the ways in which the race class and gender biases that are already well critiqued in the literature on Singapore and on other cities around the world are tied in key ways to efforts to make the city state into not just a heterosexual space that excludes queer subjects but a heteronormative one that queers many more than LGBT people Oswin thus argues for the importance of taking the politics of sexuality and intimacy much more seriously within both Singapore studies and the wider field of urban studies
