

Cut the strips, lay the two diagonal ends as shown in Fig. 58, and stitch them together. The stitching should be as close to the edge as possible, so that the main passes through the Binder freely. When the edge is properly sewed out, as shown in Fig. 58, the edges are exactly even. To see how the strips as shown in Fig. 58, as the edges would be sewed when the edges are not to be used immediately they should be sewed on a piece of material to keep them from stretching.

Fig. 60.
The Binder.

To Attach the Binder to the Machine.

Raise the needle bar to the highest point and turn the presser foot from the machine by loosening the screw which holds it in position. Then fit the binder, Fig. 60, in its place and turn the handle about three-quarters of a turn towards you to make sure that the binder is correctly attached to the presser bar; also see that the needle passes through the centre of the needle hole in the attachment.

Fig. 61. Center
Point as Formed.

To Insert the Binding in the Binder.

Fold the binding in the centre and cut to a point, as shown in Fig. 61. Insert the pointed end into the binder scroll (see Fig. 62), until it comes out at the lower end.

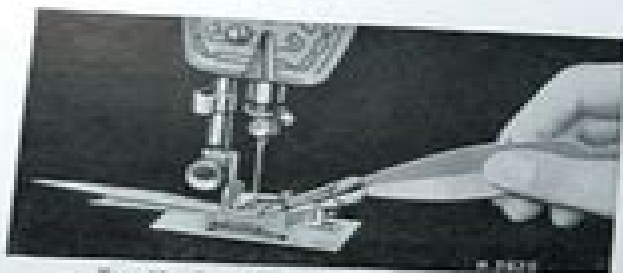

Fig. 62. Inserting Binding in Binder.

Now place the edge of the material to be bound between the scroll of the binder and pass it and the binding under the presser bar of the binder, then lower the presser bar and start to sew. You will notice that as the binding passes through the scroll of the binder the edges are turned in.

This binding is a variety of colours, cut and folded ready for use with the Binder, may be purchased in larger strips.

Fig. 63. Improving Finish Between as Given in Book.

Folded binding should be inserted in the outside slot of the Binder, as shown in Fig. 63. The Binder is adjusted and operated in the same manner as when using uncoloured binding. One-half inch broad or ribbon, having a finished edge, may also be used in the same manner, because binding passing through the outer slot is turned only once by the attachment.

The Adjustment and Operation of the Binder.

The edge of the material to be bound should be held well within the centre slot of the scroll (A, Fig. 64). If the material is allowed to slip away from the scroll when near the needle, the edge will not be caught in the binding. With a little practice it is quite easy to hold the edge in the scroll.

Various materials and conditions require different adjustments of the Binder to bring the stitching close to the edge. A wider adjustment of the Binder is required when binding curves than is necessary when binding a straight edge.

Fig. 64. Adjusting the Binder.

To adjust the Binder, for the stitching to be at the desired distance from the edge of the binding, loosen screw B, Fig. 64, and move the scroll to the right for a narrower adjustment and to the left for a wider adjustment. Care should be taken to see that the screw is well tightened after making an adjustment. To become perfectly familiar with the adjustment of the Binder, practice is necessary.
