The Mandrill A Case Of Extreme Sexual Selection:

The Mandrill Alan F. Dixson, 2015-11-12 Living in the remote forests of western central Africa the mandrill Mandrillus sphinx is notoriously elusive and has evaded scientific scrutiny for decades Yet it is the largest and most sexually dimorphic of all the Old World monkeys and perhaps the most colourful of all the mammals Synthesising the results of more than twenty five years of research this is the first extensive treatment of the mandrill s reproductive and behavioural biology Dixson explores in detail the role that sexual selection has played in shaping the mandrill s evolution covering mechanisms of mate choice intra sexual competition sperm competition and cryptic female choice Bringing to life through detailed descriptions and rich illustrations the mandrill s communicatory biology and the functions of its brightly coloured adornments this book sheds new light on the evolutionary biology of this fascinating primate Sexual Selection in Homo sapiens Menelaos Apostolou, 2017-06-20 The present book aims to examine how sexual selection works in the human species Almost all scholarly effort focuses on sexual selection in non human species and extrapolates the findings to the human one However human mating has a unique pattern not found in any other species namely parental influence over mate choice Across preindustrial societies the typical pattern of long term mating is arranged marriage where parents choose spouses for their children By doing so parents effectively become a sexual selection force Traits that enhance an individual s chance to be selected as a son or a daughter in law confer important reproductive advantages to those who are endowed with them increasing in frequency in the population The author has coined the term parental choice to describe the sexual selection force that arises from parental control over mating He synthesizes extensive theoretical and empirical work in order to understand and model this force The aim is to understand which factors give rise to parental choice and to combine these insights into constructing a more formal model It also aims to further examine whether the predictions of the model fit the patterns of mating found across different types of human societies and how the model can be used to understand the evolution of behavioral traits involved in mating By synthesizing the various arguments put forward and published across the literature the book offers a comprehensive argument and overview of an aspect of sexual selection unique to our species Furthermore the book revises and extends previously made arguments and models while it provides useful insights on how the proposed revision of sexual selection theory can enable us to understand a wide range of human behavioral phenomena It should be key reading for those interested in studying sexual selection in general and in the Homo sapiens species in particular Mammalian Sexuality Alan F. Dixson, 2021-06-03 The first detailed account of post copulatory sexual selection and the evolution of reproduction in mammals Encyclopedia of Reproduction, 2018-06-29 Encyclopedia of Reproduction Second Edition Six Volume Set comprehensively reviews biology and abnormalities also covering the most common diseases in humans such as prostate and breast cancer as well as normal developmental biology including embryogenesis gestation birth and puberty Each article provides a comprehensive overview of the selected topic to inform a broad spectrum of Movement Ecology of Afrotropical Forest Mammals Rafael Reyna-Hurtado, Colin A. Chapman, Mario Melletti, 2023-04-24 This book brings a unique perspective to animal movement studies because all studies come from African tropical environments where the great diversity either biological and structurally trees shrubs vines epiphytes present the animals with several options to fulfil their basic needs These conditions have forced the evolution of unique movement patterns and ecological strategies The book follows on our previous book Movement Ecology of Neotropical Forest Mammals but focuses on tropical African forests Movement is an essential process in the life of all organisms Animals move because they are looking for primary needs such as food water cover mating and to avoid predators Understanding the causes and consequences of animal movement is not an easy task for behavioural ecologists Many animals are shy move in secretive ways and are very sensible to human presence therefore studying the movements of mammals in tropical environments presents logistical and methodological challenges However researchers have recently started to be solved these challenges and exciting new information is emerging In this book we are compiling a set of extraordinary studies where researchers have used new technology and the strongest methodological approaches to understand movement patterns in wild African forest mammals This second book should inspire early career researchers to investigate wild mammal s movements in some of the most amazing forest in the world African tropical forests

A Concordance to Darwin's The Descent of Man and Selection in Relation to Sex Paul H. Barrett,1987 Grzimek's Animal Life Encyclopedia Bernhard Grzimek,2003 Provides a comprehensive reference on animals around the world including their life cycles predators food systems overall ecology and more Great Books of the Western World ,1952

Great Books of the Western World: Darwin ,1952 Mammalian Sexuality Alan F. Dixson,2021-06-03 There are more than 6000 species belonging to twenty seven orders in the Class Mammalia Comparative studies of this diverse and magnificent array of extant species provide valuable opportunities to formulate and test hypotheses concerning the evolution of reproduction This is the first book to explore in depth and breadth the complex interrelationships that exist between patterns of mating behaviour and the evolution of mammalian reproductive anatomy and physiology It focuses upon the role that copulatory and post copulatory sexual selection have played during the evolution of the monotremes marsupials and placental mammals and examines the effects of sperm competition and cryptic female choice upon coevolution of the genitalia in the two sexes In addition due weight is also given to discussions of the modes of life of mammals and to the roles played by natural selection and phylogeny in determining their reproductive traits      The Middle East, Abstracts and Index, 2001      New Scientist, 1978      Index to Theses with Abstracts Accepted for Higher Degrees by the Universities of Great Britain and Ireland and the Council for National Academic Awards, 2006 Theses on any subject submitted by the academic libraries in the UK and Ireland      The Descent of Man; and Selection in Relation to Sex Volume 1 Charles Darwin, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1888 edition Excerpt SUPPLEMENTAL NOTE on SEXUAL SELECTION IN RELATION TO MONKEYS Reprinted from Nature November 2 1876 p 18 In the discussion on Sexual Selection in my Descent of Man no case interested and perplexed me so much as the brightly coloured hinder ends and adjoining parts of certain monkeys As these parts are more brightly coloured in one sex than the other and as they become more brilliant during the season of love I concluded that the colours had been gained as a sexual attraction I was well aware that I thus laid myself open to ridicule though in fact it is not more surprising that a monkey should display his bright red hinder end than that a peacock should display his magnificent tail I had however at that time no evidence of monkeys exhibiting this part of their bodies during their courtship and such display in the case of birds affords the best evidence that the ornaments of the males are of service to them by attracting or exciting the females I have lately read an article by Joh von Fischer of Gotha published in Der Zoologische Garten April 1876 on the expression of monkeys under various emotions which is well worthy of study by any one interested in the subject and which shows that the author is a careful and acute observer In this article there is an account of the behaviour of a young male mandrill when he first beheld himself in a looking glass and it is added that after a time he turned round and presented his red hinder end to the glass Accordingly I wrote to Herr J von Fischer to ask what he supposed was the meaning of this strange action and he has sent me two long letters full of new and curious details which will I hope be hereafter published He says that he was himself at first perplexed      The Descent of Man, and Selection in Relation to Sex Charles Darwin, 1871 The nature of the following work will be best understood by a brief account of how it came to be written During many years I collected notes on the origin or descent of man without any intention of publishing on the subject but rather with the determination not to publish as I thought that I should thus only add to the prejudices against my views It seemed to me sufficient to indicate in the first edition of my Origin of Species that by this work light would be thrown on the origin of man and his history and this implies that man must be included with other organic beings in any general conclusion respecting his manner of appearance on this earth Now the case wears a wholly different aspect When a naturalist like Carl Vogt ventures to say in his address as President of the National Institution of Geneva 1869 personne en Europe au moins n ose plus soutenir la creation independante et de toutes pieces des especes it is manifest that at least a large number of naturalists must admit that species are the modified descendants of other species and this especially holds good with the younger and rising naturalists The greater number accept the agency of natural selection though some urge whether with justice the future must decide that I have greatly overrated its importance Of the older and honoured chiefs in natural science many unfortunately are still opposed to evolution in every form
