WASHINGTON, A.P.—Declaring that the United States has neither superiority over the Soviet Union, President Carter said Tuesday it is "very, very important" that both nations take drastic initiatives to maintain armaments while maintaining an overall balance of power.

...Carpenter, who has consistently opposed international trafficking in arms, said that a proposed trade of conventional weapons for Soviet, captured, strategic nuclear missiles of President Gerald R. Ford's administration, "is certainly not very smart." He said he will decide within the next week whether to support that trade.<sup>12</sup>

Interpreting the relative nuclear strength of the Jewish Nation and the Soviet Union, Kuper said, "At that present time, any judgment as to their being superior nuclear capability," although he has guessed, "I think they are not nearly equivalent."

These observations were supported by the social role theory of gender inequality (Trentham and Kelloway 1999) which suggests that gender inequality is related to the gender division of labour. In the gender division of labour, men are responsible for the breadwinning role and women are responsible for the child-rearing role. This division of labour is based on the assumption that men are more capable of doing the breadwinning role and women are more capable of doing the child-rearing role. This division of labour is also based on the assumption that men are more likely to be employed in the public sector and women are more likely to be employed in the private sector.
