Advances in E-Learning: Experiences and Methodologies García-Peñalvo, Francisco José, 2008-03-31 Web based training known as e

learning has experienced a great evolution and growth in recent years as the capacity for education is no longer limited by physical and time constraints. The emergence of such a prized learning tool mandates a comprehensive evaluation of the effectiveness and implications of e learning. Advances in E Learning Experiences and Methodologies explores the technical, pedagogical, methodological, tutorial, legal, and emotional aspects of e learning, considering and analyzing its different application contexts and providing researchers and practitioners with an innovative view of e learning as a lifelong learning tool for scholars in both academic and professional spheres. Web-based Training Badrul Huda Khan, 2001. Discussing Web-based training from design, development, delivery, management, implementation, and evaluation perspectives, this book includes 63 chapters by experts from around the world. They offer instruction on the uses of the Web for corporate, government, and academic training purposes. Particular chapters address topics like the advantages and limitations of Web-based training, the technological resources available, the theory behind Web-based learning, the use of simulations, online testing, copyright, and cost. c Book News Inc. Journal of Instruction Delivery Systems, 2002. E-Learning: Strategies for Delivering Knowledge in the Digital Age Marc J. Rosenberg, 2001. Higher education institutions around the world are increasingly turning to e learning as a way of dealing with growing and changing student populations. Education for the knowledge society means new skills and knowledge are needed, and it means that lifelong learning has become a necessity. Higher education institutions are looking to e learning to provide convenient and flexible access to high quality education and training that is needed to meet these emerging demands. As they implement e learning, however, institutions are struggling with the many pedagogical, organizational, and technological issues. Making the Transition to E learning Strategies and Issues provides insights and experiences from e learning experts from around the world. It addresses the institutional, pedagogical, and technological issues that higher education institutions are grappling with as they move from conventional face-to-face teaching to e learning in its diverse forms. Preparing Learners for e-Learning George M. Piskurich, 2004-02-01. Designed for anyone charged with making e learning really work, Preparing Learners for e Learning presents a variety of methods business organizations and educational institutions can use to prepare their learners to become successful e learners. This first of its kind book helps trainers, designers, and educators understand the importance of enhancing self-directedness in learners as they prepare for e learning and the various learning theories that can be used for this purpose. It then guides e learning professionals through the process of creating interventions specific to their own individual situations that will assist their learners in preparing for the move to an e learning environment. Designing Web-Based Training William Horton, 2000-02-23.
