Ticket Price Fluctuation in the Secondary Market Dongho Yoo,2012 Each Major League Baseball MLB team has 81 home games in each season and they are not 81 units of the same product but 81 different products Fans value differently each of 81 home games but what factors fans consider in this valuation have not been investigated much Numerous studies have focused on factors that motivate fans to come to the game in general but not many studies have focused on factors influencing game by game fluctuation within a season The purpose of this study is to examine factors found from the previous literature influencing the secondary market ticket price fluctuation for individual MLB games In this research the author used the ticket prices of the secondary market as dependent variables The secondary market is the platform for buying and selling tickets that previously were obtained from the franchise team the primary market The ticket prices of the primary market are relatively constant throughout the season but the ticket prices of the secondary market radically fluctuate according to fans willingness to pay for games Therefore the secondary market can be a good indicator reflecting fans perceived value fluctuation game by game After the factors were found from the literature they were statistically analyzed through regression analysis to see if they had a significant effect on the ticket price fluctuations Additionally MLB teams were divided into three groups by teams attendance level The author investigated how the level of teams popularity influences fans preference
