Robyn Hurley

Math Worksheet Black Friday Ideas:

Targeting Maths for Victoria Robyn Hurley, 2006 Exploring Mathematics Through Literature Diane Thiessen, 2004

This collection of articles and lessons provides classroom examples of how to use children's literature to teach mathematics effectively in prekindergarten through eighth grade. The articles focus on five content strands: number and operations, algebra, geometry, measurement, and data analysis, and probability, and describe how the different authors have used specific books to help their students learn mathematics. Most of the articles involve communication, problem solving, representation, and reasoning, and some of them address connections. Helpful teacher notes indicate the grade range, topic, literature selection, featured in the lesson materials, needed discussion of the mathematics, and questions for students. Blackline masters of recording sheets are also included for most lessons.

It addresses psychosocial skills, features critical thinking activities, hands-on building and design, reading, writing, creativity, and math and science connections. Each classroom-tested lesson addresses one or more affective standards from the National Association for Gifted Children psychosocial development areas for gifted learners and academic standards.
